Plainer Words Get Diplomats in Rifts

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department is beginning to lose its reputation for speaking only in diplomatic doubletalk.

Twice in two months it has shown a startling preference for plain words bluntly spoken in criticism of friends and allies.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada, who was the target last Jan. 30, and President Joao Goulart of Brazil, who was angered by the most recent blast, may well wonder whether an un-diplomatic new era is opening in U.S. diplomacy.

Closer to home, observers have the impression that these bursts of verbal erring have not always been coldly calculated.

Series of Fumbles Follow

In the Brazilian case, the truth as seen in Washington was blurred out in an unprecedented way. A series of fumbles followed.

The incident began early this month in a secret session of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee looking into Communist activities in Latin America. Ambassador Lincoln Gordon testified at great length on conditions in Brazil. His report to the committee is said to have been very frank and when he looked it over for possible publication he decided none of it should be made public. As a substitute, Gordon and other State Department officials prepared a summary statement which was sent to the committee. Among other things, it said that Communists had infiltrated the Brazilian government—a serious accusation for one friendly nation to make against another even though U.S. officials regarded it as a true statement.

The summary, State Department informants say, was supposed to have been sent to the committee as a statement by the department, not by Gordon personally. Somehow, however, it arrived at the committee as a statement from Gordon and was so printed. When the committee released its report last Thursday, news stories reported the Red-in-government charge and it brought immediate expressions of indignation in Brazil.

Protests Fly

The State Department first said the statement had been wrongly identified in being attributed to the ambassador. When that brought protest from the subcommittee, the department said the view was shared by the department and by Gordon though the statement should have been a departmental one.

Finally Undersecretary of State George Ball issued a statement deploring the whole affair and emphasizing basic U.S.-Brazilian friendship. In Brazil, aides of President Goulart said he was satisfied and it appeared that the matter would be dropped and Gordon would be able to return to his post. It also appeared that Brazil would definitely get substantial U.S. financial assistance.

Qualified informants insist that there was nothing deliberate or calculated about the criticism directed at Brazil. It became public by misadventure.

Deliberate on Canada

But in the Canadian affair, there is no doubt that the action was deliberate. The miscalculation in that instance was that the reaction in Canada was much more violent than expected.

Diefenbaker refused to accept U.S. nuclear warheads for anti-aircraft and airborne weapons equipped to handle them in defense of the North American continent and Western Europe.

Diefenbaker blasted back, accusing the United States of intrusion in Canadian affairs. A great political storm arose in Ottawa and Diefenbaker lost a confidence vote in Parliament. He faces general elections next month with his non-nuclear policy an issue. So are Canada's relations with the United States.

President Kennedy is known to have been annoyed by the failure of the State Department to realize the angry reaction which its statement might very well get in Canada.

Looking back, some officials thought that the whole thing might have been more diplomatically written. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a news conference he regretted it if the tone of the U.S. comment had caused offense in Canada.

Griffin Served 30 Years Saugerties Suit Likely to Last

Two mayors with long public service records were unseated and three others were reelected at the polls in the Tuesday elections of the five incorporated villages of Ulster County.

Reelected were Eugene Glusker to his fifth term as mayor of Ellenville; Louis Gerard DeFelice to a second term as Rosendale's chief executive; and Henry W. DuBois, who ran unopposed for mayor of New Paltz.

Served for 30 Years

Charles Griffin, 71, who has served as Pine Hill's mayor for 30 years and prior to that as village trustee for four years was defeated by Edwin France a fuel oil dealer, by five votes. Griffin said today, it was time for a change and he is happy to be able to retire after 34 years of public service.

France on the Union Party line polled 56 votes and his running mate, William Finch led the ticket with 60 for the trustee post. Griffin running on the GOP ticket polled 51 and incumbent trustee William Cure received 47 votes.

In Saugerties, George P. Holmes, who has been mayor for six two-year terms, was defeated by William Ziegler, a local bank executive, whose father was mayor in 1920. Holmes served since 1949 with the exception of the 1955-57 term when he lost to Arthur F. Simmons by 41 votes in record balloting. In March 1955 the total vote was 1,604.

Sets Voting Record

Balloting set another record in Saugerties last night when 1,805 votes were recorded on the machines.

Ziegler polled 1,005 votes to 768 for Holmes, a plurality of 237, and carried with him the three trustee posts at stake. All Independent Party candidates on Holmes' ticket were defeated giving Ziegler's Village Party full control of the board.

Running for trustee, William Schaffer Jr., with 1,024 led the Village Party ticket. Others elected on the Ziegler slate were Maurice Clements 1,009 and Jerome Daley 1,001.

Independent Party trustees who were defeated are Sheldon Longendyke 758; Frank Short 748; and Elton L. Johnson 740.

Results in Law Suit

The Saugerties campaign, the most hotly contested in many years has resulted in a $100,000 libel suit instituted by Holmes against members of his opposition in the Village Party.

Members of the law firm, Francello and Brinnier, handling the case, could not be reached for comment by Freeman press time.

Louis P. Francello, who was reported in Albany today, and William D. Brinnier, in Kingston this morning, could not be reached. Holmes told The Freeman this morning that any comment on the case would have to come from his attorneys.

The organizational meeting of the new Saugerties Village Board will be held Monday, April 1.

Motor Committee Wants Year of Daylight Saving

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Vehicles and Traffic Safety sought public opinion today on a wide variety of committee-backed bills, including a proposal for year-round daylight-saving time.

The daylight-saving bill was advanced as a safety measure. The committee chairman, Sen. Edward J. Speno, R-Nassau County, says the idea is to give home-bound motorists another hour of daylight for driving.

The bill has encountered stiff opposition in the Legislature, however, and Speno has said he would be willing to cut the provision to nine months.

New York State now has six months of daylight saving—from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

See Assembly Against Bill On Drinking

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Prospects were considered slim today for Assembly approval of a bill that would raise the minimum legal drinking age in New York State to 21 for non-residents but hold it at 18 for residents.

The Senate approved the measure Tuesday by a 56-1 vote. There was no debate.

The legislation was among a number of bills on which action was taken Tuesday. Others dealt with such subjects as drunk drivers, public housing and school-district bonds.

Companion Bill

A companion bill to the drinking-age legislation would establish a state-operated identification-card system to enforce the age limits. It has yet to be acted upon by either house.

Some Republican leaders, including Gov. Rockefeller, have indicated they do not favor the ID-card plan. In addition, an Assembly committee has killed the recommendations, a sign that the GOP majority in that house does not support them.

Other States Claim

The Assembly, in theory, could approve the Senate bill. But assemblymen rarely act on Senate bills that duplicate legislation already rejected in the Assembly.

Advocates of the increase to 21 included officials of neighboring states, where the 21-year-old level now prevails. They argued that their residents under 21 were lured to New York State to drink and became involved in traffic accidents as they returned home.

Action Taken

In other action: Rockefeller vetoed a bill that would have required police to tell a motorist arrested for driving while intoxicated that he would be examined by his own physician as well as a police physician.

Public Housing — The governor announced that a law had been introduced to require that municipal police give the same protection to residents of public-housing projects as to all other residents of the community.

Charitable Funds — The Assembly passed, 120-23, and sent to the Senate legislation to require charitable organizations to furnish, with a request for contributions, a statement of the percentage of its collections used for charitable purposes. Also passed by the Assembly and sent to the Senate was a bill to require that the blind or handicapped must receive 50 per cent of the profits from sale of

Final Report on Urban Renewal Due March 25

LEVEL AN ACCUSATION—Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., chairman of a House subcommittee on government information, poses with group of newspaper editors and publishers before a Washington hearing on government news management. Preview Is Given Officials 22 Maps and 200 Pages Included

A final report on Kingston's Broadway East urban renewal project, reviewed at a Tuesday night meeting, will be submitted to the Housing and Home Finance Agency in New York March 25, Ward B. Tongue, urban renewal director, announced today.

The report will include 22 maps and more than 200 pages of figures and supporting documentation, and the plan provides for "grant-in-aid credits" amounting to more than the city's one-eighth share of project costs, he said.

Members of the Common Council, Planning Board, and the Citizens Executive Advisory Committee for Urban Renewal were given a preview of the final project report at last night's meeting.

The plan, which represents more than a year of intensive planning, was explained by Arthur Sweid, of Raymond & May Associates, the city's planning consultants.

Report 'Highlights'

Reported as a "highlight" of the final report, was the amount of grant-in-aid developed from proposed construction of a new school in the Hasbrouck Park area, proposed building of a new fire house in the project area, and credits to be received from the Port Even-Rondout arterial highway planned for the area in conjunction with a new bridge over the Rondout Creek.

Included in the report are detailed maps showing proposed land uses, street improvements, proposed new utility systems, traffic controls, parks and playgrounds. The reuse map provides for some 12 acres of industrial space, six acres for a unified retail shopping area, and several large plots for various density residential use.

Study Being Made

Consideration is given to staffing in connection with the conservation and rehabilitation phase of the program. Conservation of existing houses will be carried out in the northeast section of the project. Studies are already under way by a local architect, and sketches prepared to demonstrate what can be accomplished, at a reasonable cost, to increase the value and livability of individual homes. The staff plan provides for a conservation coordinator, clerical personnel and technical advisers on financial and design problems.

The plan also provides for the carrying out of other phases of the program, such as the establishment of a relocation section, and the engagement of specialists in connection with the acquisition of properties, field engineering and redevelopment of the project area.

Banker Critical

Arthur A. Davis Sr., of 271 Smith Avenue, was reported in critical condition at Benedictine Hospital shortly after noon today. He was removed from his home to the hospital Tuesday night by Fatum's Ambulance Service. He is chairman of the Board at Kingston Trust Co.

Sylvester Will Tell His Story Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester goes before investigating congressmen Monday to tell his side of the story on administration handling of information.

Sylvester's handling of Pentagon announcements during the Cuban bombers and missiles crisis, and his statement that the government has a right to lie in times of grave crisis, drew sharp criticism Tuesday as a panel of news industry leaders testified before a House subcommittee investigating government information policies.

The Pentagon information officer and his opposite number at the State Department, Assistant Secretary of State Robert Manning, are due before the Foreign Operations and Government Information subcommittee Monday for the second installment of the inquiry.

Newsman's Consensus

Subcommittee Chairman John E. Moss, D-Calif., wound up the first session by describing the newsmen's consensus this way: "The government itself should now propose guidelines on policies for any future crisis."

Clark Mollenhoff of the Des Moines Register and Tribune told the subcommittee that Sylvester "stands as something of a symbol of the problem."

"I feel he has damaged his usefulness and is somewhat of a burden to the secretary of defense and the administration," Mollenhoff said. "It is difficult to see how anyone can have very much confidence in what he has to say."

Mollenhoff, representing Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalists society, joined other witnesses in complaining about a speech Sylvester gave in New York Dec. 6.

Defends Right to Lie

In it, Sylvester said it is the "government's right, if necessary, to lie to save itself when it's going up into a nuclear war."

Charles S. Rowe, publisher of The Fredericksburg (Va.) Free Lance-Star and chairman of the freedom of information committee of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, labeled that a "repugnant philosophy."

Other news industry spokesmen said the whole idea runs counter to the principles of a free society. They said deception is a tactic of communism, and doesn't fit in a democratic government.

Appeal May Delay Minnesota Order Favoring Rolvaag

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A court order declaring Democrat Karl Rolvaag eligible for a certificate of election as Minnesota's governor is to be issued Thursday or Friday by the three-judge panel which supervised the recount of ballots from the Nov. 6 election.

Attests 91-Vote Edge

The panel attested a 91-vote lead for Rolvaag Tuesday and turned down a motion by attorneys for Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen that the recount findings be thrown out.

The attorneys argued that the recount of ballots was no more valid than the November tabulation by the State Canvassing Board which had shown Andersen the victor by 142 votes.

Presiding Judge J. H. Sylvester said there was unanimous agreement by the panel on nearly 4,000 disputed ballots which came before them and said all three judges adhered to the verdict for Rolvaag.

Only a possible appeal to the Minnesota Supreme Court thus stood between the 49-year-old Democrat and the chair which Andersen, 51, has continued to occupy until, under state law, a successor was ruled "qualified and elected."

Rolvaag Elated

"It's a great day and I'm naturally elated," said Rolvaag from the basement quarters in the Capitol, where he has been keeping abreast of governmental operations.

Andersen said he will decide whether to appeal after his attorneys

Assembly Rebels Dwindle, Conference Called to Discuss Compromise Program

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The ranks of Assembly rebels who have blocked action on Gov. Rockefeller's budget were dwindling today and legislative leaders stood ready with a fast-moving plan to end the seven-week impasse.

Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino called a conference of Republican members of his house, the main battleground of the budget revolt, to act on a new compromise hand-tailored to meet many of the specific objections of the rebels.

Although the GOP Senate majority has approved its own compromise—calling for $80 million in budget cuts and $34 million in higher state levies on the liquor industry—it was ready to consider promptly any plan endorsed by the Assembly conference.

Carlino, spent most of Tuesday conferring individually with members of the bloc that four times previously has rejected compromise offers.

No timetable for passing the budget was decided upon, pending the outcome of today's meetings.

Rockefeller said Tuesday at a news conference he felt the approach of April 1, start of the new fiscal year, was lending a "sense of urgency" that would help bring about a solution.

The state would be unable to pay its 110,000 employees if no budget were passed before the start of a new fiscal year.

Carlino, however, said in a radio interview (WTRY) Tuesday night he was confident the budget would be passed before the start of the fiscal year.

He declined to tell newsmen what specific changes had been made in response to protests from the rebels.

Gov. Rockefeller took a hands-off attitude, holding that he did his job when he submitted his budget. He said he would not seek to influence members of the Legislature.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney had said that GOP senators had solved the problem and the rest was up to Assembly Republicans.

Democratic minority members are solidly against any increases in state charges.

In state government developments:

Drinking Age — The Senate passed by a 57-1 majority and without debate a controversial plan to raise the minimum drinking age in New York State to 21 for non-resident youths, keep it at 18 for residents and enforce the plan through an identification card system.

Milk — The Senate passed and sent to the Assembly a series of bills to set up a state program to oversee milk - peeling practices and prevent retailers from selling below price levels that would be fixed by the state.

Answers Question Regarding ARC Work in County

"What is the Association for Retarded Children?" "This inquiry is the question I have heard most frequently since my appointment," says the Rev. Paul R. Mertzluft, new executive director of Ulster County Chapter of the Association for Retarded Children.

The association is first an organization of parents and friends of the mentally retarded. Its purpose is to help the retarded in all ways possible. Both by establishing special training facilities supported by the association and also in cooperation with existing educational structures and governmental mental health programs. To do this we need the backing of the community.

Cites 1962 Report

Few people realize the magnitude of the problem. The October 1962 report of the President's Panel on Mental Retardation gives some startling facts of which all citizens should become aware.

Mental Retardation hits all—it is not selective of race or creed or socio-economic standing.

Mental Retardation afflicts twice as many individuals as blindness, polio, Cerebral Palsy, and rheumatic heart disease combined.

Only mental illness, cardiac disease, arthritis and cancer have a higher prevalence but they tend to come late in life. Mental retardation comes early. 5,400,000 persons are afflicted. 400,000 require constant supervision.

200,000 are cared for in institutions at a cost to states and localities of $300 million a year. An additional $250 million is spent outside of public institutions for education, welfare, rehabilitation and other benefits and services for the retarded.

Output Denied

The nation is denied several billion dollars of economic output because underachievement, underproduction or total incapability of the mentally retarded.

In Ulster County it is estimated there are about 3 per cent (which is the national level) or about 3,500 retarded persons.

To help these afflicted persons of our own communities to become better adjusted and more productive individuals is the purpose for which the County Chapter of ARC exists. With your interest and support these people will be helped. For further information stop in at or call the county office of the association, 101 Green Street, Kingston.

Convict Carthage Man In Manslaughter Case

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A 32-year-old tree surgeon has been convicted of the death of an 85-year-old woman who died of shock after she was attacked.

William J. Paul of Carthage was found guilty of second-degree manslaughter Tuesday night by a Jefferson County Court jury, which deliberated six hours before returning its verdict.

Paul had been charged with first-degree murder in the death of Mrs. Maude Effie Levoy.

Police said Paul broke into Mrs. Levoy's home in nearby Great Bend last Dec. 10 and grappled with the woman and her daughter. A coroner said Mrs. Levoy had died of shock.

Brando Traveling World as Cinema Salesman, No Less

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Look who has turned traveling salesman—Marlon Brando.

The actor recently journeyed to Tokyo to open "Mutiny on the Bounty" (he did the same in New York and here). Now he is heading for Bangkok and the world premiere of his latest film, "The Ugly American."

Two Main Reasons

"I went to the 'Mutiny' premieres for two reasons," he explained. "One is that they involved charity causes in which I was interested.

"The second is that I was most anxious for the picture to succeed. If it didn't, I would be standing alone in the Gobi Desert."

He referred to the printed accounts which purported that he had staged his own private mutiny in the film, causing millions of dollars in losses. For just such a story he has sued the Saturday Evening Post for $5 million.

"My suit wouldn't have a chance if the picture had been a flop," he reasoned. "Everybody would have been standing just below the horizon on that desert, pointing their fingers at me."

"I'm happy to report that 'Mutiny' is a roaring success."

But what about President Robert H. O'Brien's report to the MGM stockholders that "Mutiny" would not turn a profit on the first time around, but would do so when re-released?

Less Than 'Arabia'

Brando grinned knowingly.

"Overhead," he murmured. "You wouldn't believe what was charged up to overhead. Why, the studio sold the rights to the original story to the production company for $500,000."

"The actual cost of the picture was around $12 million (not $18 million, as reported). The rest was overhead, which has already been paid for. It's all paper work. The picture really costs less than 'Lawrence of Arabia.'"

Brando's reasons for attending the premiere of "The Ugly American" are less complicated. Filming of the best-seller was a project close to his heart.

"I don't suppose anyone is ever really satisfied with something they create, but I think it's an interesting picture," he said.

Pleads Guilty

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — The wife of an Air Force sergeant has been sentenced to 1½ to 4 years at Westfield State Farm after pleading guilty to a charge of second-degree grand larceny in the embezzlement of $10,000 from a furniture company.

Mrs. Elizabeth Grimsley, 36, a former bookkeeper at the Lash Furniture Co. of Plattsburgh, was sentenced Tuesday by Judge Sherlock Haley of Clinton County Court. She was arrested last November.

Consumer Council For Legislation On Clear Labeling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Advisory Council supports legislation that would require clear labeling of packages and full disclosure of the interest charge in installment sales.

The council's support of "truth in packaging" and "truth in lending" bills was among a series of recommendations made public Tuesday by Chairman Walter W. Heller of the Council of Economic Advisors. Heller appointed the consumer advisory group last year after President Kennedy called for a greater consumer voice in government deliberations.

"We believe a need exists for additional legislation and enforcement activities in the field of consumer packaging and labeling in order to facilitate the efficient and rational purchase of all types of packaged goods by the American consumer," the council said.

The group, headed by Dean Helen G. Canoyer of the New York State College of Home Economics at Ithaca also recommended legislation to insure "full disclosure of credit costs."

The council, meeting here, made a series of proposals relating to safety assurances for food additives, drugs and therapeutic instruments. It backed Kennedy's program to establish an urban affairs department, which Congress rejected in 1961.

"We favor steps toward a unified administration of all federal housing agencies," the council said. "We see the proposal of an urban affairs department as contributing to this result."

Kennedy's Tax Cut Plan And Its Effect Upon You

The effects of President Kennedy's proposed income tax reduction program on taxpayers in various income strata are shown in the accompanying table. The figures reflect the changes which would be made in the returns of persons itemizing average deductions and the proposed rate reductions for both 1964 and 1965.

Married, Two Dependents With Average Itemized Deduction

Annual Income	Present Tax	1964 Tax Liability	1965 Tax Liability	Tax Reduction when program by 1965 fully in effect	Percentage cut
$0-3,000	0	0	0	0	0
5,000	$ 310	$ 279	$ 252	$ 58	18.7
7,000	640	574	528	112	17.5
10,000	1,240	1,125	1,050	190	15.3
15,000	2,252	2,059	1,940	312	13.9
20,000	3,500	3,208	3,024	476	13.6
50,000	15,136	13,998	13,410	1,996	13.2
100,000	41,274	37,936	35,700	5,574	13.5

* The typical itemizer in this income group has no tax liability now and would continue to have none under the proposal.

See Spring Season Working Minor Miracles in Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—With spring at the threshold, many businessmen are cautiously deciding they may be better off than they were admitting.

They won't go so far as to say that business shouldn't be a lot better than it is. And they have problems and worries by the bushel. They often do.

Not as Dire
But neither today's conditions or tomorrow's prospects are as dire as many were saying a little while ago.

Federal slide-rule artists, after a new look at the employment figures, find some improvements scattered amidst the bad news they released earlier this month.

The steel industry is enjoying a mild sort of boom. Auto makers can reel off both figures and hopes—all on the rosy side. And spring could work its minor miracle among the winter weary and send auto sales still higher.

Unemployment is the most chronic pain. But even it may be eased somewhat by spring's opening up of more outdoor jobs.

Clouded by Strife
Labor strife—present and potential—is a particularly large cloud this year. But whether it blows away or becomes a major thunderstorm is yet to be seen.

Corporate earnings reports mostly are on the cheerful side. Employment figures take on a cheerier hue as the Labor Department looks the latest figures over and finds they weren't as bad as could be expected in the final weeks of winter. This is known as adjusting them seasonally.

On this basis, factory jobs increased in February for the first time in seven months. While the factory work week actually dropped a bit, it wasn't as much as usual for the time of year. So, seasonally adjusted, it is recorded as lengthening after two months of shrinkage.

All of this is designed to take some of the bitter edge off the increase of the rate of unemployment to 6.1 per cent of the total labor force, the highest percentage in 15 months.

Steel Production Up
Steel production's seven straight weeks of expansion puts it 19 per cent higher than early February. Some of the gains come from stock building as a hedge against the possibility of a strike late in the summer. Some is credited to rebuilding of stocks allowed to dwindle during the steel industry's private little recession.

But a good part of the new orders are reported to be from customers who need the metal for use now and in the spring as their own business expands. Two of steel's big customers—autos and construction—have been doing fine and see no letup soon.

Those with things to sell to consumers—from clothes to household appliances, from autos to new homes—are counting upon good spring business. There are regional differences, whether caused by the weather or unemployment. But on the whole, it looks like a good spring after a nervous winter.

ANTARCTICA—MAN TAMER

Psychologists long ago concluded that selfishness is one of the most natural and inevitable aspects of human life. Few of us can manage to be more than occasionally selfless.

Genuine altruism, humility, self-control—all attributes admirably exhibited by some people, but not nearly enough—provide the only personal checks on self-expression. The law and the moral code and other factors, of course, supply external curbs.

From time to time we are quite sensibly advised to put ourselves in some sort of perspective by noting that the little fragment of time we call recorded history is hardly more than a flyspeck on the backdrop of the earth's long span and the measureless eons of the universe.

Yet for most humans this is an almost impossible exercise in imagination.

There is an alternative, if only Antarctica can be opened some day to tourists. For the awesome, primitive, brutal grandeur of that white continent can take the self-importance out of anybody.

This is a place where summer temperatures seldom go above freezing and where winter readings, averaging 50 to 80 below, occasionally plummet to 125 below.

Winds funneled through glacial passes called "hell holes" rage up to 200 miles an hour. Most of the land lies depressed beneath an ice sheet 7,000 feet thick. Except for a rare patch of lichens or a few venturesome birds, there is no life.

The cold seas ringing the continent bear a menacing burden of great icebergs—now and then 50 miles long—broken from great ice shelves at the continent's edge. Their crashing collisions fill the air with an unearthly roar.

In Antarctica you are in the presence of nature at its most commanding. You may also witness, in the view of many scientists, a kind of preview of the "ice death" predicted for this planet as it slowly chills under a gradually expiring sun.

One can find comfort in the prospect that this fate may be billions of years away. Nevertheless, Antarctica's overpowering presence is a marvelous cure for the inflated ego.

There are a great many people thus afflicted, walking the streets of the world, who deserve to be on the first regular flight south.

The new Iraq government proposes a joint military command for five Arab nations. Israel has an uncomfortable feeling she's being followed.

A HISTORY LESSON

South America's privileged classes should study the history of China. Through all the centuries of Europe's Dark Ages China led the world in its wealth and shipping; in education, culture, philosophy and the arts. Why did she later lose this lead after all her centuries of great power?

The answer is clear. Only the chosen few shared her glory. Her exploited millions remained, in squalor and disease, illiterate and ignorant. Only the exploiters—the monarchs, the merchant princes and the military hierarchy—really prospered. They monopolized all the blessings of China's grandeur.

Inevitably such imbalance corrupts the privileged classes. With no mass of free men under them to keep them in check they debauch and ultimately destroy their civilization. In China the ruling minority, at last fatally weakened by its own excesses, was deposed by provincial bandits. China's sun sank. Long afterward it was easy for the Communists.

Many Latin American nations today are at the brink of similar disaster. Agents of Red China's ally, Castro, are moving in to take over. History has taught China how to destroy a civilization. But Latin America's exploiters seem unable to believe history.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

AMERICANS HAVE BRAINS

A common impression is that Europeans are better at fundamental, or "pure," science, while Americans excel at the business of putting basic scientific discoveries to practical use. But the reverse, in this strange period of the "Americanization" of Europe and the "Europeanization" of America, is probably coming to be true.

One indication of the shift in scientific climate came when a British chemist, Dr. C. A. Bunton, announced he was quitting a 20-year post at University College in London to join the faculty of the University of California. In the course of explaining his reasons for becoming an emigre, Dr. Bunton pointed to the widespread exodus of British physicists and chemists. They have been moving to the United States and Canada at the rate of 600 a year. The phenomenon has had the Tory peer, Lord Hailsham, sufficiently worried to make it a subject for political inquiry.

The movement of British scientists to America points to a most important conclusion: that the conditions for conducting basic research are better in the United States than in England. This is indeed a switch from the days when a British scientist, Michael Faraday, was elaborating the fundamental laws of electro-magnetism and the Americans, Samuel F. B. Morse and Thomas Edison, were busy translating Faraday's basic discoveries into such things as the commercial telegraph and the central station power house.

The change in the climate affecting basic research is more or less proved by the list of Nobel Prize winners over the years. The first Nobel Prizes for scientific discovery in physics, chemistry and medicine were given in 1901. In all the years extending from 1901 to 1930, only four American scientists, Dr. Arthur Compton, Dr. Albert A. Michelson, Dr. T. W. Richards, and Dr. Robert A. Millikan, physicists and chemists, were honored. They joined Woodrow Wilson, C. G. Daves, Theodore Roosevelt and Elihu Root, winners of the Nobel Peace Prize, on an honor roll that was heavily weighted with the names of such illustrious Europeans as Albert Einstein, the discoverer of relativity, Pierre and Marie Curie, pioneers in radium research, Niels Bohr, the atomic physicist, and Sir Ernest Rutherford, the British chemist. By actual count, British and continental European physicists, chemists and medical Nobel Prize winners had an eighty-five to four lead over Americans in the 1901-1930 period. Technically, two prize winners, Alexis Carrel and Karl Landsteiner, might be called Americans, since they were living here when they got their awards. But Carrel was born in France and Landsteiner in Austria. A couple of Canadians and an Indian were honored in the same 1901-1930 era.

After 1930 the whole preponderance began to alter. Between 1931 and 1962 some fifty American scientists, a handful of them foreign born, were selected. Nobel Prize winners in physics, chemistry and medicine were given in 1962. Very favorably with a total count of some eighty for the rest of the world, Russia and China included. While the big scientific shift was going on, Americans also began to win more and more Nobel Prizes for literature. There were no Americans honored for achievement in letters before 1930. But, beginning with Sinclair Lewis in that year, the recognition of American writers came with increasing frequency throughout the period of the depression and the years subsequent to World War II. Meanwhile, quite a number of Americans won the Nobel Peace Prize.

The old stereotype of a United States devoid of basic intellectual interests lingers in many quarters. But the stereotype is demonstrably false. It hasn't served as an accurate description for thirty years.

While the great shift of basic intellect has been going on, another curious thing has been happening: European tinklers in applying fundamental scientific knowledge to industrial processes. For instance the world's first completely automated hot strip steel mill is being built, not in Pittsburgh or Chicago, but at the Spencer Works of Richard Thomas and Baldwins, Ltd., at Llanwern, Wales. True enough, America's General Electric is supplying control equipment for this. But the mill itself is European. And when Cluett, Peabody, the American shirt-makers, began to do advanced research on textiles, they found it expedient to set up a laboratory in Switzerland, which happened to be close to the center of the latest developments in the textile arts. List of Spare Parts Grows For Use in Human Machine

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The idea of spare parts for people has long fascinated surgeons. Artificial replacement of teeth was probably the first such procedure, but the artificial tooth remained a foreign body and not a living part of the recipient.

The first true success came with skin grafting. In any kind of graft the major problem is to get the new skin to continue to grow. Grafted skin from a person of a different race will always die, whereas skin grafted from another part of the patient's own body has the best chance for survival.

If another person must be used, the patient's mother has been found to be the best donor. Sisters or brother are next best, especially if they are identical twins. Fathers, no matter how eager they are to help, are rated a poor third choice.

Before the art of skin grafting and supportive treatment for burns reached their present high state of development, a burn of 25 to 30 per cent of the body surface was invariably fatal. Now persons with much more extensive burns are usually saved.

The most recent advance in caring for such persons is a polyvinyl alcohol sponge that can be applied to a severely burned area and which acts as a substitute skin while the patient is regaining his strength. The plastic surgeon can then perform skin grafts.

In some persons who have had a serious injury to the brain, recovery depends on replacing the heavy covering membrane of the brain, the dura mater. Grafts with dura mater taken from a donor at death and preserved by deep-freezing have been found to serve this purpose well.

A type of tissue in great demand by the plastic surgeon is bone. In many cases, bone or cartilage taken from another part of the body can be used. When for any reason this type of transplant cannot be made, bone from a bone bank is used. Although this bone does not grow in the body of the recipient, it forms an efficient scaffold on which the patient builds new bone.

Another major achievement has been the successful replacement of defective heart valves with plastic or with valves taken from another body at death. Blood vessel replacement with vessels from tissue banks and with plastic materials is becoming commonplace.

We have come a long way in providing spare parts, and the end is not in sight.

Incredible as it would seem, a kidney was transplanted from a man to his nonidentical twin brother and at the last report had been functioning well for over 30 months. The reason this is so amazing is that the surgeon not only had to move the kidney from one location to another but he also had to re-establish the circulation through corresponding arteries and veins and unite severed nerves.

I would not advise anyone to be careless about mislaying a heart valve or a kidney, but for those who have the misfortune to lose the use of vital and formerly irreplaceable parts the outlook is not as grim as it once was.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

"News Management" now has become a kind of derivative political slogan or cuss word which is tossed at the Kennedy administration like the other catch-all phrases of government spending, deficit financing, anti-business policy, military muzzling and the no-win policy.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester is credited with recent revival of the "news management" term, although its origin is attributed to New York Times correspondent James B. Reston in 1955, criticizing Eisenhower policy.

The current implication is that the government now has a hard and fast news management or censorship policy which it is carrying out to suppress news the public ought to know.

It is now suggested, however, that a more accurate definition would be that the administration has no information policy at all. It is operating on a day-to-day, crisis-to-crisis basis of improvisation that has no plan at all.

AFTER THE BAY OF PIGS fiasco, an Office of Emergency Planning censorship code prepared during the Eisenhower administration was dragged out and given a look. It was found to be completely inadequate to deal with existing or future emergencies, but little has been done to bring it up-to-date.

The sad attempts to manage the news during the second Cuba crisis were the results of hasty decisions by top public affairs officers in the White House, State and Defense Departments. That they backfired is no surprise.

Examples are the 12-point directive on what not to print, the requirement that officials report their talks with reporters, first refusals to let reporters go aboard the blockade ships or visit Guantanamo, the final failure to release aerial survey photos of Cuba during the intelligence gap in early October.

But what is now considered far more important than these is the fact that if the United States got into a third Cuban crisis, which is entirely possible, there would be no good news management policy to guide either government or press.

THE HOUSE GOVERNMENT INFORMATION subcommittee under Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., has been trying to do something about this situation for eight years. It hasn't had too much success, but it is making another try in current hearings.

Discussion by a panel of top newspaper publishers, editors and broadcasting officials was intended to find out what kind of news management controls the news media would accept in a hypothetical Cuba III situation or in any other cold war crisis that might develop.

This is a follow-up on President Kennedy's request to the American Society of Newspaper Editors two years ago when they were asked to get together and figure out an acceptable voluntary security censorship. The editors would have none of it.

SYLVESTER AND ROBERT MANNING of the State Department were scheduled to tell the Moss committee their side of the Cuba mixups once more. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger is expected to testify after Easter, when the Moss committee will go into executive session. It will then hear intelligence officers of Defense and State Departments who made the estimates on which news management policies were based for Cuba I and II. Space administration and atomic energy officers dealing with national security information also will be heard.

In the late spring, Moss committee staff hopes to issue a report on what can be declassified and concluded from all this secret testimony.

It is not expected to present a draft censorship or news management code that will be acceptable to both the government and the news media. But it should point up the facts on past mistakes and emphasize the need for establishing a cold war government information policy.

It's water over the dam now, but if the editors had drafted their own code in 1961, there might not have been as many news management hassles as there were in 1962 and 1963. (Reproduction rights reserved).

Timely Quotes

The United States has created in the public's mind a definite picture of untrustworthy Communist leaders. It can no longer expect that the public or the Congress would take the Soviet Union's own word that it would keep its part of the bargain.

—Lewis B. Sohn of Harvard Law School, on nuclear test ban.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Signora Zanobi del Giocondo, The Louvre, Paris.

Dear Madam:

I'm glad you're home. Candidly, your enigmatic smile depresses me. Count me not among your fans, Mona Lisa. And by the way, where did you pick up that phone name? You were once called Madonna Lisa, alias La Gioconda. Now it's Mona Lisa, as though that were your true name.

Madame, you were married to Signor Zanobi del Giocondo. He was a man who had a few gold florins hidden against adversity, probably in your lumpy mattress. You had a pretty fair looking house in Naples and you were known to the tradespeople as Signora del Giocondo. No Lisa. No Mona.

Your hair was dark and straight and always looked as though it had been slept in. It looks like that now. Your neck was fat. Your hands were big. Also—let's face it, dear—you were practically lipless. When the signor gave you a goodnight kiss, he must have aimed for a thumb width under your nose.

Leonardo da Vinci made of you a timeless masterpiece. Twice, I had stood before you in the Louvre, studied you seriously, and said: "Ugh!" Those who understand art fall in love with you. Some men look and sigh. Others break into tears.

The importance of your trip to the United States escapes me. I wish, instead, that the French had sent some of the money they owe us from two wars. Even if it had pictures of de Gaulle on it. But no—they sent you, properly crated and guarded, men with guns all around you as though someone might steal you.

If thieves did, Signora, what would they do with you? You can't be hung in the living room of a Brooklyn flat. No crook in his right mind is going to walk into a hockshop with you under his arm, saying: "What are offering for hot da Vinci's?" No, you were safe. I think you were pretty safe when you were living, Madame.

About 2,000,000 Americans risked pneumonia to stand in long lines, just to get a look at your silly smile. That's a smile? It looks like the play a shy high school girl makes for the boy behind the soda counter. It's more of a—well, a leer, dear.

Da Vinci took one look at you and flipped. Not because you had beauty. Oh, no. He saw at once that the lipless mouth often fell into a tight little smile while the eyes remained humorless, almost sad. The combination, in one face, of the mouth saying yes

Points Named to Stop Reds In Try for Latin America

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Members of Congress of both parties have for months expressed serious concern over the possibility of open military aggression by Communist forces against the nations of this hemisphere. A realistic appraisal of the present situation and a recommendation as to what should be done have just come in a unanimous report from the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives. All nine members of the Subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs—both Republicans and Democrats—signed the report.

The committee findings are that, even though the Castro Communist forces in Cuba are incapable without outside assistance of successfully mounting an "offensive" blow, this "does not minimize the Communist threat to Inter-American security." The committee then says bluntly that "no plan for collective action against Communist subversive aggression has been put into effect" by the countries of the hemisphere.

Depends on Soviet

The report points out that, because no clear and unified hemisphere policy dealing with the Castro Communist subversion has been developed, some of the members of the Organization of American States "have not devised effective internal methods of controlling subversive traffic in and through their territories."

It is asserted emphatically that Cuba's dependence on the Soviet Union is complete and that the regime "is in fact controlled and operated by trained professional agents from the Soviet bloc."

The House Subcommittee report states flatly that "the Soviet Union must be held accountable for such subversive aggression in the Americas."

It adds that the "violent overthrow of existing governments remains the unified aim of Communist forces in Latin America," which include both the "Soviet and Chinese branches of International Communism."

Four Recommendations

But what to do about it? The subcommittee makes four principal recommendations, as follows:

"1. In accord with the joint resolution of Congress, October 3, 1962, Section (A), immediate steps should be taken by the United States to prevent by whatever means may be necessary, including the use of arms, the Marxist-Leninist Regime in Cuba from extending, by force or the threat of force, its aggressive or subversive activities to any part of the hemisphere."

"2. The United States should be prepared to act with military force, if needed, in response to the request for help and assistance of any nation of the hemisphere in danger of being overthrown by Castro Communist subversive aggression. This recommendation is in no way to be considered as a substitute for a bar to unilateral action by the United States in defense of its own security.

"3. Every effort must be made by the United States to assure collective action by the Organization of American States, and by OAS member states individually, toward the curbing of the Castro Communist subversive activities and traffic in the hemisphere.

"4. The United States should seek the complete diplomatic and economic quarantine of Communist Cuba by other nations of the hemisphere."

Use Vigorous Terms

Recommendations of a House Committee are influential but do not necessarily mean concurrence by the Executive Branch of the government. But it is significant that members of Congress are setting forth explicitly what they think should be done in Latin America. They have, in fact, stated in much more vigorous terms what American policy should be than has either the White House or the State Department.

The report shows a sympathetic attitude by the Committee's members toward economic aid for Latin America, but it is clear that they feel that this will not solve the problems of the hemisphere unless stern measures are taken to eliminate the threat of Cuban-based subversive aggression.

There are indications that the Latin American governments themselves are under heavy internal pressure from radical groups, some of which are not unsympathetic to the communists, and that this is complicating the whole problem of collective action in the hemisphere. The Soviets have spent hundreds of millions of dollars not only to supply funds, guidance and technical assistance to train guerrillas and terrorists brought into Cuba from throughout Latin America, but to infiltrate organizations in various countries. They are leaving no stone unturned to gain a political following inside the countries of the hemisphere. Many organizations are infiltrated by Communists, and the majority of the members are not aware of this underground activity.

The whole Latin-American problem is becoming more and more complicated, largely because the United States has not acted decisively and forcefully in dealing with the Communist base established under the Castro Regime in Cuba.

and eyes saying no intrigued him. Your husband permitted you to spend almost four years off and on, posing for the portrait. This is hardly a testimonial to a felicitous marriage. Ordinarily, Leonardo da Vinci would have knocked the little canvas off in a week. But X-rays show that he started by having your eyes a little low, and then painted over them.

A good part of the years 1503 to 1506 were spent trying to capture the tight little smile and the grave eyes. After only a few sittings, da Vinci discovered, to his horror, that you could not put the smile on when he needed it. So he went out and hired some musicians to play for you. This worked fine for you. It distracted him.

Behind you, he painted a landscape of a valley of curving streams and subtly-colored trees. It is so interesting that — no offense, Signora — I often feel like asking you to step aside for a moment so that I could see the Florentine landscape. I do not know whether da Vinci paid you, or your husband, for the four years of time (off and on) but I know that when he finished it, King Francis I bought it for 4,000 gold florins, which is quite a sum for a dame who can't make up her mind.

The American television networks made more of a fuss over you than the people of France. On the two occasions when I walked through the Louvre, you hung like an orphan between rows of beautiful paintings. You were—please excuse the expression—halfway down the hall to the left.

No one spoiled you with adulation, but in America, we had armed guards, armored trucks, special casing to hold you, and a humidifier to keep your face in proper moisture. As though, after 450 years, you'd crack if you were lying in a hot and dusty attic.

Stay home, Signora. Hang in peace. At your age, you are fortunate not to be in pieces ...

Preoccupations

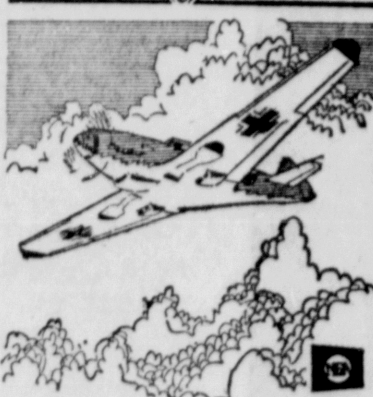

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Americans have become too preoccupied "with the technological results of faith," says Dr. Erick Hutchinson, professor of chemistry at Stanford University, adding:

"Infatuation with buildings, churches, external appearances, has made it more important to have a plushy place for a one-hour-a-week Sunday service, coupled with literal hell-raising for the remainder of the week, than to make one's self the temple in which love of God and one's neighbor finds room to work."

Include in Fellowship

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Protestantism increasingly is being challenged by Negro religious groups like the Black Muslims, says the Rev. Lyle E. Schaller, director of a regional church planning office.

Writing in "Christian Advocate," national Methodist pastors' magazine, he says: "The churches must accept Negroes not only into membership, but also into fellowship."

During World War II German planes were referred to as Messerschmitts because of their engineer, Willy Messerschmitt. He created the Me163, the Komet, which was the first airplane designed for a liquid fuel rocket engine, and the Me262 which in early 1944 was the first jet plane flown in combat.

Rail President Calls Waterway Plan Boondoggle

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The president of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad attacked today as a "billion-dollar boondoggle" the proposed Champlain Waterway between the St. Lawrence and Hudson Rivers.

John P. Hitz Jr., in a speech prepared for a meeting of area business and civic leaders, said construction of the deep-water shipping channel "would benefit no one but foreign ships, which will then be able to penetrate more deeply into the bowels of the United States with cheap-labor foreign products."

The railroad executive said the waterway would "without question cost this part of the state the northern end of the D&H Railroad from Fort Edward to Rouses Point." He described that section of the line as marginal and said its traffic was "very susceptible to diversion to subsidized water transportation."

The abandonment of that section of the railroad, Hitz said, would mean loss of $787,838 in tax revenue a year by communities along the route and $3,604,000 in D & H payrolls.

The waterway, which would connect the two rivers by way of the Lake Champlain, is now under study by the International Joint Commission of the United States and Canada.

Hitz contended that the City of Albany should oppose the project "by every possible means."

"It can benefit Albany in no way whatsoever," he said. "In fact, a deep channel north of Albany will unquestionably render the Port of Albany superfluous."

Hitz also called for support for efforts to repeal the state's full-crew laws, which specify the number of crewmen required on trains.

He said it was an "assinine make-work statute."

The meeting was sponsored by the Railroad Community Committee of Eastern New York, which is made up of representatives of the D & H, New York Central and Boston & Maine Railroads. About 70 persons attended.

Settlement Made In Greene Mishap

A $95,000 lawsuit arising out of an automobile accident in Greene County Oct. 17, 1960, was settled in Albany County Supreme Court for an undisclosed amount.

Three persons were involved. Mrs. Irma Miller and her son, William, both of Coxsack, sued for $45,000 each for neck and back injuries which they suffered when a car owned and operated by Roger Bacon of Hannacrois left the road and hit a tree on Staco Road.

They sued Bacon and the Albany Safeway. Brake Service, Inc., which reportedly repaired the brakes in the car a few weeks prior to the mishap. In a companion suit Bacon sought $5,000 from the brake firm, claiming the brakes failed as he negotiated a precipitous curve.

To Ask Federal Payment to N.Y. For Toll Highways

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Carleton J. King, R-N.Y., said Tuesday he would introduce a bill that could lead to eventual payment to New York for toll roads incorporated into the interstate highway system.

The measure would pledge reimbursement to states for toll roads made part of the system. Federal officials have ruled out reimbursement until completion of the entire system scheduled for 1972.

The government pays up to 90 per cent of the cost of interstate highways but has paid the states nothing for toll roads made part of the system.

About 490 miles of New York toll road, including the Thruway, are part of the system, and King estimated the federal share of its construction cost at almost $800 million.

Efforts by New York members of Congress in previous years to obtain both immediate reimbursement and a promise of eventual payment have failed.

Tolls still are being collected on the Thruway. King's measure, virtually identical to others introduced in previous sessions of Congress, makes no provision for elimination of tolls, pending a determination by Congress on the extent of the government's obligation.

Judy Garland Is Stimulating in All Situations

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Judy Garland is a performer of many moods. In her television special last season she was a mature, almost tragic and lonely figure on a big stage. Tuesday night, she was a youthful, gay and frolicsome figure—on a big stage.

But whatever Miss Garland's mood, she is always an exciting and stimulating performer. The electricity she generates and the emotion she expends make even the most trivial lyrics of a Tin Pan Alley number sound important and meaningful.

Her CBS hour Tuesday night had some mildly amusing comedy to keep Phil Silvers busy. Robert Goulet shared some of the musical chores and looked adoring in a duet. But the interesting moments came when Judy Garland was alone in the spotlight on a darkened stage singing her songs.

Her weekly shows next season are something pleasant to anticipate.

Well, the widowed heroine of "The New Loretta Young Show" married her publisher and prepared, in the last fade-out Monday night, to live happily ever after with her new husband and brood of seven.

The final episode ended with a notice, "The Very End." But Miss Young, in her short epilogue, said,

"Goodbye—for awhile." The energetic Loretta, far from downhearted by the cancellation of the series, is already thinking about a dramatic anthology series of hour shows.

Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports: Biography of a Bookie Joint," 7:30-8:30 (EST)—repeat of last season's controversial documentary on a book-making establishment.

Unused Truck Scorched

A panel milk truck not presently being used was damaged by fire at noon today after gasoline, which leaked from another vehicle ignited at Vogel's Dairy, 17 South Wall Street. Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations and the Wicks Company answered a call at 12:03 p. m. with Deputy Chief Glyn Southard in charge. A booster line was used and the blaze was confined largely to the point of origin. The milk truck was scorched on its right side, and a rear outside tire was damaged. The gas had leaked from a nearby pickup truck. Both were parked outside. Wiltwyck volunteers and Excelsior Hose Company were on standby call.

Held in Neighbor's Death

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—William R. Bond, 32, was charged with second-degree murder early today in the shooting of a neighbor.

Joseph L. Hunt, 28, was shot in the head Tuesday night with a .22-caliber rifle as he alighted from an automobile near his home, police said. He was dead on arrival at Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Police declined to discuss the motive. Bond was picked up a few minutes after the shooting.

Hunt was a Negro. Bond is white.

Cites Protection Costs

Dutchess County Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan said Tuesday his office is ready to provide police protection at Dutchess Community College at an estimated cost of $12,723.17. Quinlan said his estimate is based on the cost of hiring three deputies and paying contributions to the state retirement system.

Cool Period Due for Area

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The extended forecast, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p. m. today to 7 p. m. Monday:

Eastern New York—Rather cool with some moderation Friday and Saturday. Temperatures expected to average 3 to 5 degrees below normal. Few snow flurries west and north tonight and Thursday. Next period of general precipitation expected about Saturday when snow or rain is likely over north and mostly rain over south. Western New York—Temperatures will average near to 3 degrees below normal. Colder Thursday. Warmer Friday and Saturday and colder again first of next week. Precipitation will average around one-quarter inch melted as scattered snow flurries tonight and Thursday and scattered rain showers about Saturday or Sunday.

Temperature normals—Daytime highs 35-44; nighttime lows 19-25.

Barkentine Can't Go to Museum, Joins Davey Jones

BOSTON (AP)—The barkentine Bear, sailing vessel famed for heroic exploits at the North and South Poles, went down Tuesday night in stormy seas 260 miles east of Boston and 90 miles south of Cape Sable, Nova Scotia.

The Coast Guard received word of the craft's plunge from the tug Irving Birch which had been towing the vessel from Halifax to Philadelphia.

The tow line parted Tuesday. The Birch did not report whether the craft had broken up or had settled slowly beneath the waves that reached 12-foot swells.

The two men aboard the Bear had been taken off. A Coast Guard aircraft dropped a rubber liferaft to the Irving Birch, which floated it over to the Bear to enable its two crewmen to paddle to safety.

The Bear's latest battle began when she broke loose from a towline to the Birch. She was on her way to Philadelphia, to be preserved as an historic relic.

The 18-foot Bear was built to crutch through thick ice floes on the North Atlantic sealing grounds. She was purchased by the United States after 11 years of sailing out of St. Johns, Nfld.

New Hurley

NEW HURLEY—Several from here attended the fish and chips supper at the Plattekill Grange Hall Saturday evening.

There will be regular preaching services in the New Hurley Reformed Church Sunday 11 a. m. and Sunday school in the church hall at 9:45 a. m. with classes for all ages.

The union Lenten services will be held at the Shawangunk Reformed Church Sunday 8 p. m. with the Rev. Peter Boelhouwer of Three Bridges, N. J., preaching.

Saturday, April 6, the third annual oyster supper of the New Hurley Church will be held at the church hall. Servings will be at 5, 6, 7 and 8 p. m. Tickets may be purchased from Richard Schoonmaker, Wallace Palen, Marvin Dutches and Roy Fries.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Anderson were recent visitors of relatives at Accord and Mettuchons. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denniston attended the flower show in New York last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Gerow of Plattekill called on their cousin, Mrs. Gerow Wilkin Saturday afternoon.

Jury Selection Starts

Selection of a jury to hear testimony in the first degree manslaughter charge against John Willie Clifton was commenced in County Court today before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and a jury. Clifton faces a charge of manslaughter for the death of his wife, Alessa, at Milton January 5, 1963. It is alleged she died of a stab wound at a Poughkeepsie hospital where she was taken from her Milton home. Clifton, a migrant worker, claims the stabbing took place during a struggle for possession of the stiletto. Assistant District Attorney Joseph Torracca appears for the prosecution and Charles Saccoman for defendant.

Saud Not Aboard

CUENO, Italy (AP)—A jetliner carrying members of King Saud's entourage crashed into a mountain today killing all 16 persons aboard, search officials reported. The Saudi Arabian monarch was not aboard.

The plane had carried the king to Nice from Geneva, then returned to pick up other members of his party. It was on its way back to the Riviera resort when disaster struck.

The plane carried seven members of the king's staff, including a senior officer of the Saudi army, and a nine-man crew of British and Saudi Arabians, authorities reported.

At Aix en Provence, France, search and rescue center officials reported the plane went down in a rainstorm near this Italian town and there were no survivors. Snow was falling at the scene this morning.

Authorities here said the plane struck about half way up Mt. Matto, a peak two miles high.

Stickles Gets 5-10 Term

A 25-year-old Dover Plains father was sentenced today to a term of 5 to 10 years in Sing Sing prison, after pleading guilty to charges accusing him of fatally beating his 21-month-old daughter last Dec. 26. Herman E. Stickles was taken into custody last Dec. 28 after his daughter died in a Connecticut Hospital. Sentence was imposed by Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz at Poughkeepsie.

Doctor Dies Bowling

Dr. Albert O. LaFleur, 63, a supervising psychiatrist at Hudson River State Hospital, died unexpectedly of a heart attack Monday night while bowling at the Dutchess Lanes, Washington Street, Poughkeepsie.

Airman Randall S. Brunson of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, Ohio, proved that it takes a little willpower—coupled with special diet and exercise—to lose weight.

Brunson, ordered to get his weight down from 226 pounds to 195, lost more than 50 pounds in 10 weeks to tip the scales at 175.

"I'd have been down to 170 by now," he said, "but I went to a dinner party last week and gained eight pounds."

Nancy Anne Fleming, 20, Miss America of 1961, is to be married Thursday to William Johnson of Okemos, Mich., a fellow student at Michigan State University.

Diane Sawyer, 17, named America's Junior Miss of 1963 at Mobile, Ala., Saturday, came home to Louisville, Ky., after appearances in New York City. Now it's back at Seneca High School, where she is a senior.

Maj. Gen. Ben I. Funk, chief of the Air Force Space Systems Division, says the nation must prepare to inspect any foreign vehicle in space, and "have the ability to capture it, or otherwise negate it."

Funk, in Dallas, Tex., for briefings on space projects, said the United States will, if necessary, develop offensive military capability in outer space.

Withdraws Canned Tuna

NEW YORK (AP)—The A&P food store chain ordered all A&P canned tuna in its 4,400 stores withdrawn from sale today in the wake of reports of suspected food poisoning, fatal in two cases in Detroit.

A company spokesman said that although the suspected tuna was from a California packer, it was clearing its shelves of all A&P tuna as a precaution.

County health officials in Detroit also warned housewives to turn in any 6½ cans bearing the lid markings "W332" and "118X."

Harry B. Cole, Denning JP Dies

Harry B. Cole, 68, of Frost Valley, justice of the peace in the Town of Denning, died Monday at Hamilton Avenue Hospital, Monticello where he had been a patient for five days.

Born in Claryville, Jan. 1, 1895, he was the son of the late DuBois and Augusta Crawford Cole. He and his wife, the former Pearl Alice Van Valkenburg celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Nov. 28, 1962.

Mr. Cole had lived at Frost Valley for 50 years and had been manager of the Forstmann estate there for many years. When part of the estate was later taken over by the YMCA as a camp area, he remained as maintenance man.

Active in Republican politics in the Town of Denning, Mr. Cole had been a committeeman for many years. He had been a special game protector since 1918.

Was Charter Fireman

He was a member of the Dutch Reformed Church of Claryville; Remond Church 816, F&AM of Liberty and a charter member of the Claryville Fire Company.

Surviving in addition to his wife are four sons, Percy of Claryville, Harold of Woodbourne, Warren of Claryville and Robert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; six grandchildren and two great grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Oral Dyer of Freeport, Me.

Funeral services will be held Thursday 2 p. m. at the Claryville Reformed Church with the Rev. John Carter of Woodbourne officiating. Friends may call at the Ramsey's Funeral Home, 275 South Main Street, Liberty, this evening.

Special Guardian Was Requested By Attorney Korn

The article appearing in Tuesday's Freeman which stated that the order of Surrogate Francis X. Tucker made June 12, 1962 appointing Attorney Philip Korn of Kerhonkson as executor of the estate of the late Harvey C. Locke has been revoked in incorrect. In order to comply with technical and jurisdictional requirements, and in view of later evidence that a child had been exonerated of the will of the late Harvey C. Locke was voluntarily re-opened by Attorney Korn to allow a daughter or any of her heirs to appear if they so desired in connection with the estate.

The appointment of a special guardian was requested by Attorney Philip Korn, as executor, on his own motion to comply with this jurisdictional requirement. Surrogate Francis X. Tucker confirmed the fact that Attorney Philip Korn's appointment as executor was not revoked.

Attorney Korn pointed out that where heirs are served by publication and if they do not appear on the return date of the citation, the procedure is for the Court to appoint an attorney to act as a special guardian to protect their interests. It was also pointed out this does not indicate or imply in any way that the probate of the will or any of the proceedings taken thereunder were improper. Such appointment is merely to comply with the jurisdictional requirement of the Surrogate's Court Act.

Under the will which was admitted to valid probate in June, 1962, there are more than six beneficiaries including the Samsonville Methodist Church.

Driver Charged In Four-Vehicle Crash on Tuesday

Four vehicles were involved in an accident on Albany Post Road, Gardiner, Tuesday at about 4:30 p. m., and the operator of one vehicle was charged with driving a motor vehicle at a speed not reasonable or prudent, according to Highland State Police.

Troopers said Harold F. Guaraglia, 17, of Gardiner, was driving a 1958 car in a northerly direction, when the vehicle reportedly struck a parked vehicle and continued on hitting the front porch of the Erin Hotel, Gardiner. A pickup truck and a 1963 car also parked near the hotel, were damaged, according to a report of Trooper J. M. Curtis.

A summons issued to Guaraglia is returnable March 27 before Justice of the Peace Warren McDowell, Town of Gardiner.

HALLORAN FUNERAL HOME

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Received some interesting response on items on early schools in this county and state. George W. Ertz, of Tillson, writes the following: "I have read your article in the paper as of March 8 about schools in Sullivan County and the Town of Denning in Ulster County. This was very interesting to me and I thought you might like some information about the first school in the Town of Denning."

Mr. Ertz' letter continues: "In 1844 Albert Vandover, who lived where the road now starts going to the Red Hill Fire Tower and John W. Smith who lived where John D. Schoonmaker Jr. has his summer camp, walked by the way of the Shandaken path, a blazed trail through the woods to Shandaken, a distance of about 25 miles. There they met with a Col. Risley who was school commissioner for the Town of Shandaken. There they persuaded Mr. Risley to open a new school on Red Hill known as the School District Number 12 of the Town of Shandaken. Local residents joined in giving their time and constructed a one room, log cabin school heated by a fireplace."

He further writes: "In 1845 school was opened with Miss Sally Finch as teacher and she received 75 cents a week and worked for a farmer by the name of Anthony Schwab (known as Antone Schwab) as a helper to Mrs. Schwab for which she received her board free. "I am sure so much could be written about our early teachers and their trials and tribulations, and they had to produce results and so little to work with.

Mr. Ertz further writes: "On March 6, 1849 the State Legislature created the Town of Denning and on April 5, 1849 the first town meeting of the Town of Denning was held in this schoolhouse, and this school district became the first school district in the Town of Denning, known as District One, Red Hill School, of the Town of Denning."

He adds that later there was much ill feeling on the location of this school as it was not centrally located and on one dark night it was burned. A new building was built on land donated by Mr. Schwab and that building still stands, but now unused as the Town of Denning is now part of Tri-Valley School. Robert T. Many was elected as superintendent of schools, at this first town meeting and he received $7.01 for his services. The Town of Denning was formed from the Town of Shandaken, Mr. Ertz added.

Mr. Ertz of Tillson further writes: "In Mr. De Lissers' Picturesque Ulster Town of Denning, there are several pictures of Winton Lodge now owned by Mrs. Karl Connell. At the time of the pictures it was owned by C. M. Roof and in the records of the Town of Denning, I found an article dated about 1900 in which Mr. Roof appeared before the town board. There had been much discussion that the assessors were planning on raising the assessment of Mr. Roof's property. He appeared before the town board and told them that if they would not raise his valuation he would donate five dollars to each School District in the Town of Denning and the board accepted his offer. At that time there were ten school districts operating in the town, namely Round Pond, Branch, Frost Valley, Denning, Ladleton, Dewittville, Red Hill, Peekamoose, Sundown and Greenville. Today there is no school operating in the Town, all pupils are transported to the Tri-Valley School in Grahamsville."

More Jobs, Land Values Go UpGerman Economic Invasion Brings 24 Firms to Ireland

By JOHN P. GALE

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Nuala O'Dea, 26, from an old Irish farming family, is a tiny and satisfied part of a German economic invasion rolling across her homeland.

Miss O'Dea works for a German factory in the sprawling industrial hinterland springing up around Shannon Airport. She starts at 8 a.m. in a brightly lit, air-conditioned factory block, takes orders from German bosses and earns $18.20 a week.

"I'm at least 3 pounds—$8.40—a week better off than in my last job as a waitress," she says. "I am also able to stay in Ireland. Until this job came along, I had made up my mind to emigrate, probably to America. There was not enough work for me on the farm."

Not All Blissful

Other Irish people view the German invasion less blissfully. German land investments have sent values rocketing in some areas, good farms of 200 acres now cost more than twice the national average of $225 to $250 an acre. German demand has also pushed the prices of some residential holdings in County Cork to about 10 times their previous level—to $700 per acre.

Germans bid this month for about $300,000 worth of property in County Donegal. Much of it is farmland.

Warning on Farmers

Dublin's Junior Chamber of Commerce warned of a danger that the small Irish farmer would be swept aside in the land rush by overseas investors.

So far, the Irish government has stood off demands to curb the rate of investment. It is in fact trying to attract more industrialists, settling them in factories and paying state grants up to two-thirds of the total capital cost of building, site development and machinery.

There are benefits ranging from interest-free 7-year loans to a 10-year tax holiday on the profits of all new export industries. At Shannon, the tax holiday lasts until 1984 and raw materials enter the airport free of duty.

24 Industries Operate

Twenty-four German industries have settled in the republic since 1959, attracted by these favorable terms and also the availability of a large low-cost labor pool. German industries are turning out on Irish soil such diverse products as ballpoint pens, carpets, cranes, grain driers, wallets, fork lift trucks and mouth organs.

Nuala O'Dea's boss is Anton Dahmen from Aachen. He is works manager of a factory at Shannon that turns out fine wire gauze for television screens, auto carburetors and pharmaceutical purposes.

Dahmen said he had made a point of trying "not to bear down too hard" on his work force.

"They are more easily led than driven. Once they wanted a longer tea break. They got it. They wanted new stuff for the canteen—electric kettles and so on. They got that too."

"The big advantages of manufacturing here are the plentiful staff and our location. We are much nearer to our markets in the states and in England. We can meet an order from the U.S. in three days if the stuff is in stock."

State Farmers Have Good Record On Conservation

Farmers in New York State chalked up another good record in conservation projects, encouraged by Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing in 1962. E. M. Wood, chairman, ASC Ulster County Committee, reported today.

Ulster County farmers participated in the program by boosting conservation of soil, water, and other natural resources on a total of 275 county farms.

This represents an increase of 35 farms over the number of farms included in the program in 1961. Land on participating farms totaled 52,193 acres in 1962.

Chairman Wood listed the following as the most popular ACP practices in Ulster County carried out in 1962:

Liming, tree planting, constructing livestock ponds, improving woodlands, diversion ditches, open and underground drainage, irrigation ponds, establishment of winter cover crops.

Nationally, conservation of soil, water, grass, woods and wildlife was advanced with the aid of Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing on 1,216,598 farms and ranches in 1961. This was an increase of 18 per cent over the similar number for 1960. Land in participating farms in 1961 was 433 million acres, 11 per cent more than in 1960.

Enrollment for the 1963 Agricultural Conservation Program is being accepted at the County ABC's office, 54 John Street, Kingston.

In spite of his bidding South was an expert card player. Unfortunately, he was also a hand hog. Otherwise, he would have let his partner wrap up three no-trump.

I cashed my king and ace of hearts. My partner had opened the three, dropped the deuce on the second lead and I knew he was ready to ruff.

It was also apparent that unless my partner held the king of clubs declarer would have the rest of the tricks, but if my partner held that card declarer would have to guess between a club and a diamond finesse.

South and West knew all about suit preference signals so I could play the ten of hearts to ask for a diamond return or the five to ask for a club return.

I decided that South was in a mood to play me for a double cross so I carefully placed the ten of hearts on the table. My partner ruffed and led back a diamond as I had asked.

South glared at me for a while and finally remarked "That was too obvious. You can't have the king of diamonds." Then he played the jack from dummy and

Skip the sulphur and molasses—get a CHEVROLET SUPER SPORT

Chevrolet Super Sports* have a charm that soothes your springtime yen for romantic adventure as fast as you can slip into a bucket seat. (Especially the Impala's, with its adjustable new Comfortilt steering wheel*). And the charm lasts all year round. Match that, old-time tonics! In fact, match that, anybody! Front bucket seats are a great start, but Super Sports also feature plush all-vinyl interiors, special interior-exterior trim in tasteful touches, and a veritable feast of goodies we call performance options*. A modest enough phrase to describe tailored-to-your-taste-action, from brisk to utterly overwhelming. Chevrolet and Chevy II Super Sports invite adventure in convertible or coupe form. Think that's all? You don't know Chevrolet! That same Super Sport zing applies to the Corvair Monza Spyder, very breezy with its air-cooled 150-horsepower rear-mounted engine, 4-speed shift* and an outlook made for green country lanes. Ditto for the new Corvette Sting Ray, a magnificent thoroughbred among pureblood sports cars with not a single sacrifice in comfort. Both Spyder and Sting Ray come in coupe or convertible styles. All Chevrolet Super Sports are like spring days—you've got to get out in them to savor them. So catch yourself a passing zephyr and waft on down to your Chevrolet showroom.

Critic's Widow Dies

BARRYTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Livingston Chandler Aldrich, 92, member of a prominent New York State family and widow of a one-time New York Times music critic, died Tuesday.

Her late brother, Lewis Stuyvesant Chandler, of Barrytown, was elected lieutenant governor in 1906 with the late Gov. Charles Evans Hughes, who later became chief justice of the United States. Her husband, Richard, retired in 1928 as music critic for the New York Times but continued to do some work for the paper. He died in Rome, Italy, in 1937.

Exiles Promise
More Attacks
On Castroland

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has put itself on record as being strongly opposed to hit and run commando raids on Cuba by anti-Castro exiles. But two exile group leaders said today that "our attacks will continue until the final liberation of Cuba."

The State Department said Tuesday that "such raids do not weaken the grip of the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba. Indeed they may strengthen it."

Thus the department turned a cold shoulder on the news of an attack Sunday on a Soviet cargo ship in northern Cuba. Exile sources claimed some Russians were killed in an exchange of gunfire.

Antonio Viedana and Cecilio Vazquez, leaders of the exile organizations Alpha 66 and Second National Front of the Escambray, said in a statement issued in New York this morning that the attacks would continue.

They would not comment directly on the State Department statement, but declared: "Our struggle belongs only and exclusively to the interests of the Cuban people and therefore we cannot accept that the solution of the Cuban case should be the isolation of our fatherland from the rest of the Americas."

The State Department said reports of the latest incident "reinforce our belief that these irresponsible and ineffective forays serve to increase the difficulty of dealing with the unsatisfactory situation which now exists in the Caribbean."

"The U.S. government is investigating fully to determine whether any violation of U.S. law is involved."

In a news conference Tuesday in Washington, spokesmen for the two exile groups said the raid near Sagua la Grande in Las Villas Province was not launched from U.S. soil. They also argued that such attacks encourage opposition to Castro.

Without mentioning a raid, Havana radio said some wounded sailors had been taken to a hospital. Moscow radio, on the other hand, announced that a raid by exiles had taken place, blamed the United States, but made no mention of any Russian casualties.

600 Stay off Jobs

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—About 600 workers remained away from work for the second day today at dress-manufacturing plants in Utica, Oswego and Little Falls, in a dispute involving alleged contract violations.

Fire Destroys 10 Stores

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Fire swept through the Terre Haute business district today, destroying 10 stores, injuring three firemen and causing an estimated several million dollars property damage.

Five buildings were destroyed and others were damaged in a seven-hour blaze whipped by 30 m.p.h. winds. Firemen controlled the fire at 8:32 a.m., but kept a four-block downtown area roped off.

In Brief

MOSCOW (AP)—Grigory Melnik, a veteran Communist party functionary, moved today into one of the toughest political jobs in the Soviet Union—boss of the sprawling virgin lands farm region of Kazakhstan.

His job, as chairman of the Kazakhstan Communist party Central Committee's Bureau for Agriculture, will be to reverse the five-year trend of declining wheat harvests in the virgin lands.

Three men who failed in this assignment have been fired from the top party post in Kazakhstan in the last four years.

PARIS (AP)—Striking French iron ore miners voted Tuesday night to return to work after getting job security pledges from their private employers.

Still out for the third week were 170,000 coal miners who work in the government-operated pits.

The iron miners are paid much more than the coal miners who struck for a 11 per cent hike in wages and a shorter work week. The coal miners were offered a 5.7 per cent increase spread over the year. The iron miners feared the closing of marginal mines as a result of Common Market plans to improve efficiency in the industry.

CAIRO (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic conferred until 4 a.m. today with Syrian Premier Salah Bitar in an effort to reconcile their views on Arab unity.

Nasser believes in one party rule, but Bitar's Ba'ath Socialists are more liberal. Reconciliation is an evident requirement for a union of Egypt, Syria and Iraq.

The Ba'ath is strong in Syria and Iraq. Bitar was minister of national guidance in Nasser's Cabinet before the union of Egypt and Syria split up.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Arab Republic will pull its troops out of Yemen if Saudi Arabia and the Aden Federation quit supplying aid to royalist counter-revolutionaries there, a U.N. source says.

The source said U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser told U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche during his recent visit to Cairo he had more than 25,000 men in Yemen. President Abdullah Sallal of Yemen told Bunche these could go home if arms and money supplied to his enemies were cut off by the neighboring states.

2 Mayors Lose

was reelected to a fifth term in rather light balloting. He defeated GOP candidate Jack Siegel 831 to 554. A total of 1,408 cast ballots.

Mayor Glusker must serve with a four-man Republican Board of Trustees. Two GOP candidates for trustee posts were elected.

Edwin E. Hoar, incumbent, led the balloting with 844 votes and Albert I. Lonstein garnered 796 votes to win the opened post created by Henry Solomon, Republican, who completed a one-year term and did not choose to run.

Defeated Democratic candidates for trustee on Glusker's ticket are Robert Weinstein 484, and William Eckert 598.

Incumbent Rosendale Mayor Louis Gerard DeFelice, a local florist, was reelected to a second term on the People's Party slate.

He defeated the Democratic and Independent Party candidate LeRoy Chase 288 to 109.

Incumbent Citizen's Party Trustee Charles George received 136 votes and was reelected over Bruce A. Miller, 119 on the People's Party ticket, and Alfred Evans, 85 on the Democratic and Independent line.

Only 44 citizens voted in the New Paltz Village election where Mayor Henry W. DuBois, well-known Ulster County volunteer fireman and banker was reelected to a third term without opposition. Re-elected with him was incumbent T. J. Leland Heinze, Robert G. DuBois was elected to the trustee post vacancy when William Heidgerd's term expired. All candidates received 44 votes.

3 Villages Vote
New Mayors in Dutchess County

There were upsets in the mayoralty posts in the Dutchess County Villages of Red Hook, Fishkill and Wappingers Falls, where incumbents were defeated.

Heavy balloting in most of Dutchess County's eight incorporated villages at the annual elections on Tuesday, resulted in upsets in the Villages of Red Hook, Fishkill, and Wappingers Falls where incumbent mayors were replaced.

In Red Hook, Oliver E. Rider, incumbent mayor, was defeated. He was replaced by Joseph A. McCloskey, an IBM employee and Republican.

In Fishkill, incumbent mayor, H. Anthony Griswold, running on the Village Party ticket, was defeated by Robert S. Wetmiller, Citizens Party candidate, by a vote of 240 to 221. Wetmiller is a Texaco Research Center engineer.

An upset occurred in the Village of Wappingers Falls. Incumbent Mayor Joseph A. McCloskey, an IBM employee and Republican, was defeated by Peter C. Furnari, Democrat and chairman of the industrial arts department at the Roy C. Ketcham Senior High School. The vote was Furnari, 845, McCloskey, 477.

Mayor John Murtaugh, candidate for reelection on the People's Party ticket, was returned to office after defeating Bertram E. Roberts, nurseryman, in the Millbrook village election. Murtaugh polled 248 votes against 195 for Roberts, majority candidate on the Citizens Party ticket.

At Tivoli, Howard W. Bard, an IBM employee, lost his bid for mayor. He was defeated by A. Parker Boice, former chairman of the Columbia County Board of Supervisors. The vote was Boice 186, Bard 26.

A contest in the village of Millerton was won by incumbent Republican Mayor William J. Gormley, who defeated Francis Crawford an Independent by a vote of 242 to 210.

Democratic Mayor William F. Clark, unopposed, polled 433 and was reelected for another term as head of the Pawling village government.

No opposition marked the Rhinebeck Village election where incumbent Mayor Donald J. Closs was reelected for a second term. He received 65 votes in the quiet election.

Republicans Win
Two Villages in Greene Elections

Results in four Greene County village elections showed Republicans winning in two—Tannersville and Athens—Democrats winning in Cocksackie and Independents in Hunter won unopposed.

Elections for trustees and police justice in Catskill will be held Tuesday, March 26. In Tannersville incumbent GOP Mayor Warm won over his Democrat opponent, Fred Haines by the slim margin of four votes. The count was 195 to 191. Republicans also reelected Trustee John J. Leach 181 and Police Justice Joseph Reich 196, against Democrats, Bruce Showers 106 and Melvin Risely for the police justice post, 83.

In Athens, incumbent Mayor Henry Coon Democrat, endorsed by the GOP ran unopposed and received 288 votes.

Incumbent GOP Trustee Anthony Remy 278 and Benjamin Wolkomir 268, were reelected over Democrats Dr. William Godfried 240 and Lawrence Stenger 228.

Democrats in Cocksackie were swept back into office with Mayor Henry Betke winning with a vote of 652 over his GOP opponent, incumbent Trustee Thomas McManus, who received 438 votes.

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors, coppers and chemicals showed plus signs as the stock market edged higher early this afternoon in slow trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon had a gain of 5 at 255.6 with industrials up 1.0, rails up .2, utilities up .1.

Gains of key stocks ran from fractions to around a point but most changes were small. Quite a few stocks showed small losses.

Trading slackened even below Tuesday's slow pace. Wall Street's credit market's firmness chiefly to short covering.

U.S. Smelting picked up a couple of points while Polaroid and Xerox were each about a point.

Woolworth and Eastman Kodak each advanced about a point while Du Pont, Radio Corp., and American Smelting did slightly better than that.

Chrysler and American Motors were fractional gainers. Ford and General Motors were firm.

Lorillard fell 7/8 to 45, later clipping the loss. Liggett & Myers and American Tobacco made fractional gains.

Fractional gainers included AT&T, United Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Westinghouse Electric, Texaco, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Illinois Central and Southern Pacific.

Crown Cork fell more than a point. Homestake, New York Central and Sperry Rand were among fractional losers.

Senate Approves
Bills for State to Set Milk Minimum

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Bills to give the state the power to set the minimum retail price of milk—an issue potentially as controversial as milk-dating—had the approval today of the Senate.

Republicans in the Senate, with the aid of a few Democrats, adopted Tuesday a package of five bills that would provide for state licensing of all stores that sell milk. The state agriculture commissioner would have the authority to fix the average retail cost of the milk, and the stores would be forbidden to sell below that price.

The votes in favor of the bills ranged from 31 to 33. Twenty-three senators opposed them. The legislation was sent to the Assembly, which also is controlled by Republicans.

Aimed at Market
Sen. Walter Van Wagner, R-Herkimer, who sponsored the bills, said they were intended to stop "cutthroat" competition among supermarkets that sold milk at less than cost to attract customers.

Established milk dealers, who must make a profit on their sales, are driven out of business as a result, he argued.

But Sen. Joseph Zaretzki of Manhattan, Democratic minority leader, promised that Democrats in Manhattan would make as big an issue of the proposals, if enacted, as they did of milk-dating.

Says It's Same
Sen. Seymour R. Thaler, D-Lennox, contended, "no matter how you dress it up, it's the same old price-fixing bill" that Gov. Rockefeller vetoed previously.

Thaler said the purpose of the legislation was to "make certain that the housewife pays the highest possible price."

The milk-dating controversy referred to by Zaretzki arose when Republicans in the Legislature passed a law in 1960 forbidding New York City to require that bottles of milk sold at retail carry the date of pasteurization.

Stirs Housewives
The action caused a furor among housewives, who charged that the milk they were buying was sour. Milk-dating was a major issue in the city's 1961 mayoral election, which the GOP lost.

The Legislature restored the milk-dating authority last year, at Rockefeller's request.

Republicans who supported the price-fixing measures said dealers had been forced out of business by milk-price wars on Long Island and in Buffalo and Rochester.

Sen. Robert C. McEwen, R-Ogdensburg, whose district includes the leading dairy county in the state, criticized the proposals. Whatever destructive competition now exists in milk-retailing, he said, is a result of the law that gives exclusive territories to milk dealers.

He argued that the bills approved by the Senate would extend the concept of protected markets.

Cottkill Auto
Stolen March 10
Found on L. I.

Local police were notified early Tuesday afternoon that a car, which could have been taken by three of five teenagers, who escaped from here after reported trouble March 9 and 10, was located in the Queens Village area of Long Island.

A report at 1:30 p.m. said the 1955 Buick of Ruth Eva Rhymer, of PO Box 28, Cottkill, reported stolen early Sunday, March 10 from Hurley Avenue, had been found.

Two Face Charges
Two of the five teenagers, who drew police attention here late Saturday, March 9 after they allegedly drove from the New York metropolitan area in a stolen car, were apprehended at the Trailways bus terminal. They were identified as Eugene Johnson, 17, of 190-35 12th Avenue, St. Albans, L. I. and Joseph Simmons, 18, of 195-02 Iliion Avenue, St. Albans, and were returned to Long Island.

Local police said that before the arrest of the two, and the escape of the other three, they had received reports from various points in the city that they were supposed to have "possessed a gun" and threatened other teenagers here.

Others Sought
The two caught were booked on grand larceny charges, and the others, if apprehended, face the same.

Local police began combing the city in patrol cars late Saturday night, March 9, after reports that the boys had been troublesome while walking in the central Broadway area, and other reports indicated potential trouble in downtown areas.

The two caught were booked by Detectives Gunsey Burger and William Glover after the group had been spotted by Officers Ernest Bartroff and Joseph Feraca.

Police were notified at 1:30 a.m. March 10 that the Rhymer car had been taken from Hurley Avenue.

Need to Sell Stocks

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q "My husband has a heart condition, is highly nervous, and needs fishing to relax his strenuous life as a traveling salesman. We own Phelps Dodge, General Electric, General Motors, Standard of New Jersey, Alcoa, J. I. Case, Bethlehem Steel. The doctor has advised us to buy a summer cottage; to fish for relaxation. It will cost $15,000. Would you tell me what stocks to sell to get $5,000 down payment on the cottage? I'm a nervous wreck myself, can't think straight, and need an expert's advice. Please help me."

A "A careful computation shows that you will have to sell virtually all of your stocks. I should retain Jersey Standard and dispose of the rest, which will bring you in about $5,000."

People with heart conditions frequently live to a ripe old age, as I hope your husband will. I know how hard it is, but I urge you to compose yourself—don't try to carry the whole burden of your husband's condition.

Q "At 30, I am married, and we have five children. We own our home and have some money saved. I have $22,000 life insurance. I would like to invest in stocks, but a friend says I should buy $30,000 more of insurance. Wouldn't I be better off investing my dollars in stocks?" C.F.

WHERE IS THE PHYSICAL FITNESS PROGRAM LEADING US?

OFFICE CAT

By Junius Trade Mark Reg.

Mrs. Brown (rebuked her maid)—I wrote your name with my finger in the dust on the dining-room mantel-piece this morning.

Maid—I know you did, mum, an' you spelled it wrong.

A mother sent her 5-year-old daughter to the store for some powdered sugar. To specify the grade she wanted, the mother wrote four X's on a piece of paper and told her to give it to the grocer.

When the child's father came home, he asked her if she had helped her mother that day.

Five-Year-Old Daughter—Oh, yes, I took a note to the grocer. Mama sent him four kisses!

We're giving you a raise, Smithers, said the boss, because we want your last week here to be a happy one.

First Maid (bragging about a party given the day before by her mistress)—And they all came in limousines, and had on the grandest clothes, and wore the biggest diamonds. And what did they talk about?

First Maid—Us.

Husband—Say, what will you take for that gadget?

Declaration by Seven Chiefs Comes as No Surprise

Private Agreements, If Any, Less Obvious Results of San Jose Talks

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—What the seven presidents did at Costa Rica was so obvious it had been predicted. They issued a declaration of intention to stop the spread of communism in this hemisphere.

What is less obvious is what they may have agreed on privately, if anything. But even the success of what they publicly announced depends on how thoroughly they carry it out.

After two days of talks President Kennedy—and the presidents of Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, El Salvador, Guatemala and Panama—said they agreed:

Two Main Points

1. To make a real effort at social and economic progress in Latin America.

2. To halt the flow of Communist agents, arms and propaganda between Cuba and the Central American countries.

The United States, according to the declaration, will give special help in this with additional air and sea surveillance and interception within territorial waters.

But while the presidents were meeting the State Department in Washington announced strong U.S. opposition to hit and run raids on Cuba by refugees.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said this country "has stated repeatedly that such raids do not weaken the grip of the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba. Indeed, they may strengthen it."

If the United States—which backed the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961—intends to be firm against hit and run raids it may depress the morale of anti-Castroites inside Cuba.

Could Worsen Relations

The reason for White's statement seems to be not concern for the Castroites in Cuba but for the Russians there. If they get hit by raiders it will mess up American-Russian relations even more.

The Russians would then do the obvious: claim the raiders came from U.S. bases and had American instigation and support.

In Miami this week anti-Castro Cuban refugees said two refugee groups shelled a Soviet military camp and a Soviet ship in Cuba.

The seven presidents' declaration raised no threat of armed intervention by any of their countries against Castro but expressed their conviction Cuba would soon be free of him.

How they're going to do this without direct action against him, since he is getting Russian help, backed by perhaps 15,000 Russian troops in Cuba, is the No. 1 mystery of the Costa Rican conference.

Indicates Earnestness

So, as far as the public is concerned, it's no more enlightened on what direct steps can be taken against Castro than it was before the meeting.

The declaration did indicate earnestness on the part of the Central American presidents to push their social and economic programs through more cooperation and integration.

Five of the six Central American countries—Panama is the exception but now says it wants to move closer—have already had for two years a common market arrangement of their own.

Kennedy promised them a loan quickly and more help later when they get their plans further along.

Cementon Ladies Elect Officers For Sports Unit

Officers were elected at the March 17 meeting of the Cementon Sportsmen's Association Ladies Auxiliary and Mrs. Marge Misetich is the new president.

Chosen to serve with her by the 65 women in attendance at the meeting were: Mrs. Mary Pulling, vice president; Mrs. Joann Simmons, secretary, and Mrs. Helen Engelin, treasurer.

Trustees are Mrs. Anna Mack for two years, and Mrs. Evelyn Johnson for one year.

Meetings are held, the second Monday each month at 7:30 p. m. in the Cementon Sportsmen's Club.

Dismiss Indictment

Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz has dismissed a second degree assault indictment pending against Walter A. Webb, 22, of Staatsburg. Judge Schwartz earlier had set aside a jury verdict that convicted Webb of the assault count. The charges involved complaints by a 42-year-old Town of Poughkeepsie woman, who accused Webb of attacking her at Hyde Park last May 8. The woman subsequently was indicted and pleaded guilty to misdemeanor counts of perjury. Webb was represented by N. LeVan Haver, local attorney. Dismissal of the indictment was on recommendation of District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta.

Faces Sentencing

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Patricia Ann Hanson, 20, of Old Chatham, faces sentencing Friday for first-degree manslaughter in the stabbing of a boyfriend more than two years ago.

Miss Hanson had been charged with second-degree murder in the death of Garry Whitney, 18, in a lover's lane in Nassau Oct. 1, 1960. The maximum penalty for first-degree manslaughter is 20 years in prison.

Dies of Injuries

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Jane Drinkwater, 39, of Niagara Falls, died Tuesday night at a hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when her automobile struck a parked car.

Physicians Condemn Cigarette Smoking

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Monroe County Medical Society is opposed to cigarette smoking because of what the group says is "the preponderance of evidence" that it "is the major cause of lung cancer" and is also linked with other diseases.

Nearly 200 physicians attending the society's quarterly meeting Tuesday night overwhelmingly approved, by voice vote, a resolution condemning cigarette smoking.

Veterans Advised On Exemptions in Reporting Taxes

Area veterans were reminded again today that in filing their federal and state income taxes they need not count as income any payments they have received for veteran benefits, since these payments are wholly tax free.

Charles Culver, State Veteran Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs and John Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, also said that the proceeds of GI life insurance policies, including the dividends themselves are exempt from tax reporting. However, interest earned on GI life insurance dividends left on deposit is not a "benefit" and is taxable.

Culver and Tyler pointed out that veteran death benefits to families of deceased veterans are tax exempt. They include death compensation and pension, indemnity and all GI insurance payments.

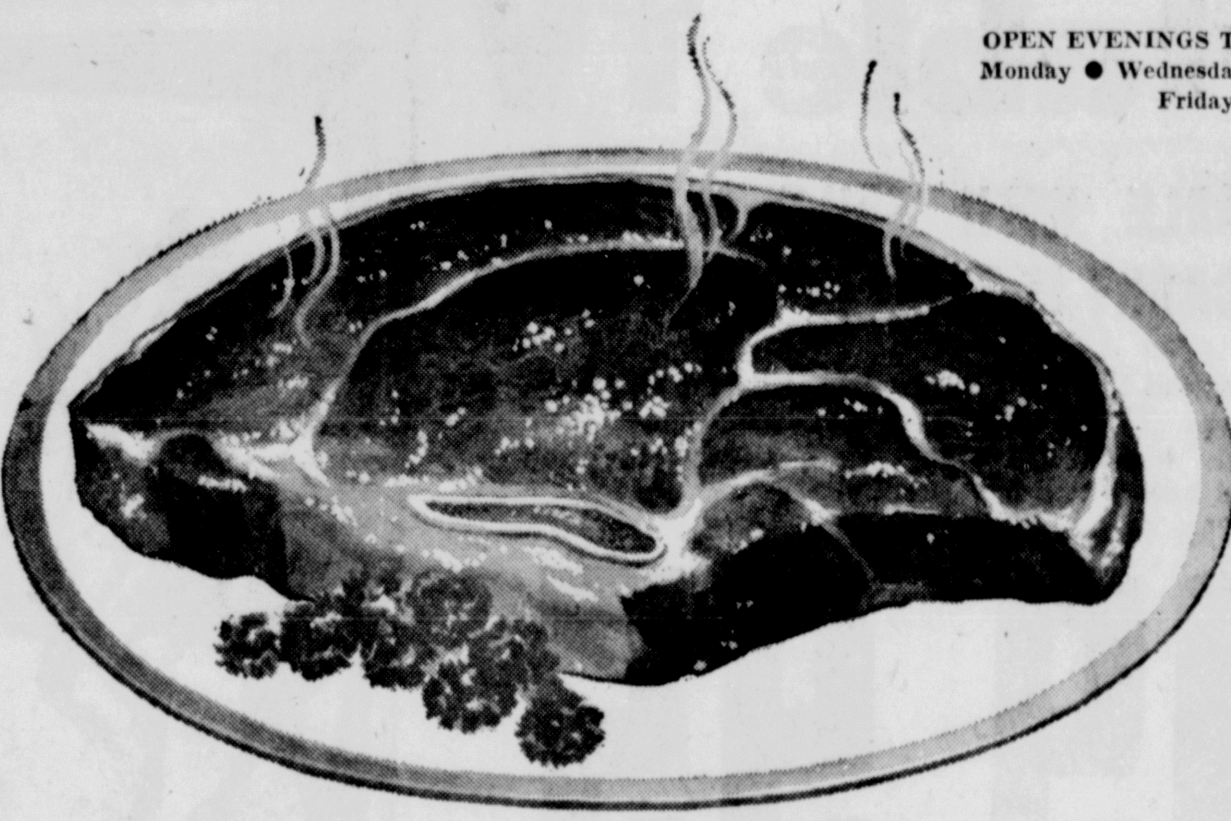

Further information relative to the filing of federal and state income tax statements by veterans and their families or any problem concerning entitlement to veteran benefits may be secured by contacting Culver or Tyler at their office at 32 Main Street, Monday through Friday, 9 to 5.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Career Training Parley Slated

President Gerald W. Kurtz has announced that Saugerties Jaycees, in conjunction with the guidance department of Saugerties School District, will sponsor a Career Training Conference at the Saugerties High School on May 14.

The purpose of this conference is to acquaint students in grades 8 through 12 with various vocations so that they will be better able to make a choice as to their careers. It is anticipated that about 25 speakers representing various vocations will be offered with each student having an opportunity to hear two speakers.

Robert Tutt of Redwood Road has been appointed project chairman for the Jaycees. He and his committee will work closely with the guidance department. The members of the Jaycee Committee are Arthur Bunch, Stanley Tomasic, Dr. John Sommer, Donald Patterson and Robert McNary.

Food Additives

Today shoppers demand a food supply that, among other things, is plentiful, varied, wholesome and safe, dependable, nutritious, and less time-consuming to prepare than in earlier years. The present food supply comes near to fulfilling these requirements, partly due to contributions made by additives to food. Food additives play an important role in the nation's food supply in various ways, such as keeping qualities, flavor, color, texture, cooking quality, and food value, says Louise, M. Karko, assistant home demonstration agent.

Food additives contribute to the plentiful supply of food by preventing loss from spoilage. Some additives inhibit the development of molds and bacteria by extending the storage life of foods. Other additives help make food more attractive and flavorful. A few contribute food value. Additives help in the development of new food products, many of them convenience foods.

The shopper will find salt often in ingredient lists on food labels. Salt, too, is a chemical, sodium chloride. It has been added to food perhaps longer than any other chemical. Salt was used by ancient man to preserve and flavor meat and can be found on most tables today.

The additives in foods are chemicals as is all matter as well as the natural constituents of food: the proteins, carbohydrates, fats, water, minerals, and vitamins. Many food additives are made in laboratories. Synthetic vitamin A, for example, But others occur in nature—salt, spices and substances like lecithin, derived from corn and soybeans.

The term, salt, is used on food labels rather than the chemical term, sodium chloride, because by law chemicals must be declared on labels by the common or usual name. The common name for sodium chloride is salt. But shoppers will find many chemical terms on food labels, some difficult to pronounce. These chemical terms are used because no common or usual name exists for many additives.

The family food shopper, buying the family's weekly food supply, needs assurance that the additives are safe. Unless the shopper is an expert in food chemistry, this assurance can come only from one source—the laws regulating the use of additives in food.

The most important of these laws is the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and its amendments. A major change in this law was made in 1958, necessitated by the revolution in food production and processing of the past several decades. The Food Additives Amendment of 1958 increases the protection of consumers against harmful food additives. This amendment requires that food additives be tested and approved prior to use. Approval is granted by the Food and Drug Administration only after thorough testing has proved the additive to be safe in the amounts and for the purposes used.

The Color Additive Amendments of 1960 update the regulations certifying colors which may be used in foods. Here, again, pretesting before use in foods is required.

Federal laws relate to foods in interstate commerce, that is, products manufactured in one state and shipped in another state. Some food is manufactured in New York State and consumed here. To govern additives for this food, New York has laws paralleling those of the federal government. So New York State consumers are protected by laws for the food they eat regardless of where manufactured.

Barclay Heights Unit
Members of the Barclay Heights Unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Ramon Parenti, 57 Appletree Drive on Thursday at 8:15 p. m.
The agenda will include a guest speaker.

FOR YOUR NEXT LENTEN DINNER—There isn't anything stuffy about stuffed fish for a daily Lenten dinner. It's easily prepared, bursting with flavor and quite a treat for your family. Best of all, you'll enjoy making a delectable entree such as Stuffed Striped Bass. To match your skills with the most famous coastal restaurants, you need only fix a stuffing and secure it between a split and boned bass. To keep this delicate seafood from breaking apart during baking and serving, we recommend wrapping it entirely in super strength aluminum foil. You may accent your stuffing with chopped oysters and other seasonings. Detailed recipe may be obtained from the Freeman Society Editor.

We The Women We Can Do Without 'Em

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some people most people could get along very well without:

The person who promises to call right back on a matter important to you — and who doesn't call back at all.

The person whose first reaction to one of your new possessions is, "I hope you use it more than we used ours," or "If I had known you were going to buy one, I would have given ours to you. I never use it at all."

The person who hasn't seen you for a while and whose greeting is, "Haven't you put on weight?" Or "What have you done to your hair?" Or "Have you been ill?"

The person who says, "It's too bad you missed the party. It was the best one of the year."

PRESCRIPTION PRICES

How are prescription prices determined? We have a policy in this matter, the only one we can follow. We do not offer bargains in prescriptions — there is no cut-rate way to health. Nor do we pretend to under-sell. Prescription prices simply are determined by the cost of the ingredients and operating expense. The prices we charge are as low as satisfactory service and effective drugs will allow.

Speaker Listed For Good Friday Rites at YMCA

The ninth annual YMCA Communion service will take place at the Y building 8 a. m. Good Friday, April 12 with the Rev. C. Pershing Hunter, pastor of St. James Methodist Church officiating.

The service is mainly for members of the board of directors, trustees and key lay committeemen connected with the local YMCA program.

A special setting is arranged symbolic of the occasion. Tables are placed in the youth center in the form of a cross and adorned with twelve candles, signifying the twelve disciples. White lilies and ferns complete the decorations.

Louis H. Schafer, general secretary of the YMCA, started the service in 1955. Nine different pastors have officiated at the services during that time. The service starts 8 a. m. and is concluded by 8:30. There is no breakfast.

Seminar to Give Data on Problems Of Mobilization

John Ponsen, general chairman of the National Security Seminar, to take place here May 6-17, said today that civilian leaders of the Kingston area and Reserve Officers from different sections of the country who attend, will get first-hand information on the problems involved and how they will be affected in an all-out or partial mobilization of the national economy. The national and international aspects of the nation's position in the world today will be examined.

The two-week session will be conducted by a group of six senior officers, from the faculty of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces in Washington, D. C. The seminar is based on the curriculum of the 10-month resident course of the Industrial College, the highest level military school. The coverage is designed to insure a wider and more thorough understanding of how civilian and military efforts are coordinated in this period of national stress.

The seminar, sponsored here by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will include presentations and discussions on such subjects as: The present and potential economic and military strength of Russia and the Soviet Bloc, and the political, psychological and geographic factors influencing the cold war.

The speakers will consider the nation's educational needs in discussing manpower resources; strategic and critical materials, fuel and power, agriculture, transportation, telecommunications, and the problems of financing national security.

They will discuss Communism, population trends, Exploration of Space, and the impact of economic warfare, civil defense, and public opinion. The seminar will also cover the emergency organization of the government and the plans for and problems to be met in a post-attack period.

Daily sessions, Monday through Friday, will be held from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. These hours are selected to make it possible for persons to maintain their regular work while attending the seminar. Films and other visual aids will be interspersed with the lectures and forums.

Registrations for the seminar are now being accepted at the office of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Church Gives Books To Saugerties Library

The First Baptist Church of Saugerties, in cooperation with Preaching Print, Inc. of Portland, Ore., placed four new children's books this past week in the Saugerties Public Library, Washington Avenue.

The four books are Stories for the Children's Hour by Kenneth N. Taylor, Pat Collins and the Secret Engine by Bernard Palmer and Pat Collins and the Hidden Treasure by Bernard Palmer. These three books were published by the Moody Bible Press of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill. The fourth book, Come Before Winter was written by Janie Lancaster McMinn and published by Loizeaux Brothers, Inc., N. Y. Mrs. McMinn has an unusual gift of writing for children. She knows how to make the Bible stories attractive and the Gospel winsome.

Charge Irresponsibility

Citizens Committee Blasts Attack on OCS Bond Issue

The Onteora Citizens Committee has scored what it describes as "irresponsible allegations" in a statement released to press and radio Tuesday by four Town of Olive taxpayers.

In their statement attacking the bond issue, the four charged that "the tactics of the Board of Education in having double sessions where they need not have been necessary (with increased cost of transportation and reduced efficiency in teaching), and unwarranted increases in teachers' and administrators' salaries in order to further its plans, is an abuse of their duties as public officials."

The four who signed the statement were: Bradford Kelder, Edwin S. Secor, Floyd E. Merriew and J. James Fairbairn.

Nussbaum Replies
Robert Nussbaum, chairman of the Citizens Committee, today

issued the following statement in rebuttal to the Tuesday announcement:

"For the past few weeks, members of the Onteora Citizens Committee have been distributing literature containing facts and figures concerning the school bond issue.

"A certain group has been disputing these figures and has actually stated that double sessions in Onteora are unnecessary and have been forced on the people in order to pass the bond issue.

"First of all, while impugning carefully collected data, these people will offer no figures of their own.

"Secondly, before a school system can go on double sessions, it must receive approval from the State Education Department, who carefully evaluate the figures submitted to them. That such approval was granted to the Onteora system clearly shows the correctness of the information supplied by the school authorities.

"It is an easy matter to make irresponsible allegations, but it is much harder to come up with constructive proposals. The Onteora Citizens Committee will continue bringing the facts before the voters and will not be influenced by these attempts to confuse the issue.

Republican Club To Hear Sullivan On Bond Issue

A public information program on the Onteora school bond referendum will be presented at the Woodstock Republican Club meeting, March 28 at Deane's.

The executive committee of the club announced that Dr. George R. Sullivan, Superintendent of Schools of the Onteora Central Schools District, will present a program entitled: "Classroom Needs in the Onteora School District."

Dr. Sullivan with the aid of slides will demonstrate the building plans of the district and will show the relationship between the present facilities and the increasing number of school-age children. This presentation will be followed by a review of the proposals contained in the bond referendum, which is to be submitted to the voters on April 3 and a summary of the costs of the proposed building program together with other facts and figures relative to district building programs.

Richard Langham, chairman of the Woodstock chapter of the Onteora Citizens Committee, will speak after Dr. Sullivan. Langham will discuss what the Onteora Citizens Committee considers to be the most urgent problems of the school district and the proposed solutions to these problems contained in the April 3 bond referendum.

Question-Answer
A question and answer period will follow the presentations by Dr. Sullivan and Langham.

The executive committee of the Woodstock Republican Club, with full appreciation for the traditional policy of the Republican Party to keep all politics out of school affairs and to leave the field of education to educators, feels that the April 3 bond referendum is a matter of vital importance to all voters of the school district and that knowledge of the facts is essential if an intelligent ballot is to be cast on April 3, says Clark Bell, vice president and publicity chairman of the GOP Club.

In the spirit of civic responsibility and in attempting to get the facts before the public, the club has arranged this public information program and urges all voters of the district and interested parties to attend the March 28 meeting. The club also points out that to vote, you must register. Registration days are March 23 and March 27 between the hours of 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., Bell noted.

Letters received in conjunction with the Political Opinion, Please program will be presented for club consideration.

St. John's Annual Dinner Set Saturday

St. John's Roman Catholic Church is holding its annual St. Patrick's Day dinner and dance Saturday at Deane's in Woodstock.

The affair was such a tremendous success last year that this year's dinner has been a sellout for the past several days.

More than 250 tickets have been sold, far exceeding the normal capacity of Deane's. Dr. Edmund J. Tomaselli is chairman of the dinner-dance.

Vocational Talk Set March 26 for High School P-TA

Henry Hopper, a member of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services, will address the Onteora High School P-TA on the importance of vocational education for the children of the Onteora school district.

Hopper will address the parents and teachers of the OCS district on the topic: "Vocational Training for Our Children" on Tuesday, March 26, at 8 p. m. in the high school cafeteria.

Slides of the county vocational program in action will be shown by Hopper. A discussion period will follow, allowing for questions concerning the revision of old courses and the preparation of new ones.

The annual Jenkins Memorial Award will be presented at the meeting to a most deserving and dedicated citizen of the district.

The P-TA slate of officers for the 1963-64 school year will be submitted by the nominating committee. Further nominations will be accepted from the floor. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Democratic Club To Hear Sullivan

Dr. George R. Sullivan, Superintendent of Schools of the Onteora Central Schools District, will address the Woodstock Democratic Club's monthly meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Town House.

The superintendent will discuss the current classroom shortage in the OCS and the forthcoming bond issue on April 3. A

Receive Many Volunteers for Student Program

Several Onteora Central Schools District families have expressed a desire to play host to a foreign exchange student, Mrs. Manuel Bromberg, chairman, announced at a recent meeting of the Onteora chapter of the American Field Service.

The families have been interviewed and their applications have been forwarded to AFS, Mrs. Bromberg said. The name of the fortunate family should be announced within the next few weeks, she added.

Mrs. Bromberg also named the following as members of her committee: Mrs. Richard Rowe, Woodstock; Mrs. G. Irwin, Shokan; Mrs. Howard Umney, Mt. Tremper; Mrs. Arthur Hansen, Woodstock and West Hurley schools; and Mrs. Philip Gordon, Phoenicia.

Mrs. Paul Perlman, chairman of Special Projects, will have Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Porter of Phoenicia and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sears of Pine Hill as members of her committee.

Mrs. John Lurie, chairman of publicity, has announced that Mrs. William Landesman of Phoenicia, Mrs. Fred Muehleck of Woodland and Mrs. Chester Gaede of Bearsville will serve on her committee.

question and answer period will follow his talk.

President Tobie Geertsema will make an important announcement and several resolutions relating to the political situation will be acted on by the Democrats.

Man Pleads Innocent In Hudson Shooting

HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — Jesse Durham, 58, has pleaded innocent to a charge of second-degree murder in the shooting of a Greenport farm hand.

Durham entered the plea Tuesday before Judge William F. Christiansa of Columbia County Court.

Durham is accused of fatally shooting Jesse Ferguson of Albany last Jan. 16 at a downtown "social club" operated by Durham. Ferguson was employed at the time at a farm in nearby Greenport.

Police said Durham claimed he shot in self defense.

Durham was held in county jail in lieu of $15,000 bail. The case was adjourned until May 1.

It is generally believed among students of the subject that Noah's ark was made of gopher wood (perhaps cypress or cedar) and was divided into compartments on three decks, the topmost of which had a window in the roof. The ark's dimensions of 300 cubits long, 50 cubits broad and 30 cubits high are translated into 450 ft. by 75 ft. by 45 ft.

Give Ten Reasons

Among these reasons are (1) adequate individual attention for the majority of pupils has been all but eliminated; (2) the curriculum, of necessity, has been modified because of lack of time, as a result, important areas such as social studies and science are not receiving adequate attention; (3) all remedial classes have been discontinued, because of lack of space and the impossibility in transportation; (4) the amount of time devoted to special areas such as art, music and physical education has been reduced considerably. Art classes now meet only once in two weeks;

Also, (5) many of the characteristics of a modern educational program, such as the use of visual aids and field trips have been drastically curtailed; (6) co-curricular activities, such as band, chorus, and violin have had practice periods reduced, with a resulting retardation of customary progress; (7) class projects and displays have had to be eliminated because of lack of space in the classrooms; (8) children on afternoon session have been found to be tired and unresponsive. Consequently they are not benefiting from school time as much as full day and morning session students; (9) because of the pressure of time, not enough effort can be devoted to motivation for learning, and the following of individual or class interests; (10) this reduced program will have a detrimental effect on the preparation of Onteora elementary children for high school.

New Jewelry Classes Scheduled at Guild

The Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen is offering a new series of lessons in jewelry making for those who have requested evening classes.

The class will be conducted under the auspices of the Adult Education program of the Onteora Central school and will be held in the workshop of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. The first class is scheduled Thursday, March 28, at 7 p. m., with Miss Marie Frey as instructor. Those interested in joining the group are asked to contact Mrs. Wangler at the Guild, or Miss Frey at her home.

Marlboro Central Dominates All-UCAL Basketball Team

Saugerties High Baseball Team Hoping for Improved Season

STEVE AURIGEMMA

BOB BARNUM

TOM KENNY

League Champs Have Three Stars On First Squad

Marlboro Central, which swept through the UCAL with twelve straight victories, dominated the circuit's annual All-Star team, as selected by the coaches.

Sharpshooters Steve Aurigemma and Frank Benevento and playmaker Jim DeSantis were selected for first team berths. They join Eddie Mooney of Wallkill, Bob Barnum of Rondout Valley and Tom Kenny of New Paltz. Six players were named because Kenny and DeSantis tied for fifth place in the balloting, which is conducted on a point system.

Second team selections include Harold Kerns and Larry Martinez of Wallkill, Bruce McKinney of New Paltz, Sam Richardson of Pine Bush and Highland's Tom Gruner. Those picked on the third team are Fred Ellis of Highland, John Phelan of Ontario, Vince Caserto of Marlboro and Dan Biedermann and Harold Cliff of Pine Bush.

Five of the six players on the first team are seniors with DeSantis the only exception. He's a junior. Mooney is the only repeater. It's his second straight first team selection. He was awarded a second team berth as a sophomore.

Aurigemma made honorable mention last season while Barnum just missed a first team berth, being the first performer chosen on the second five.

First team members will receive certificates from the Kingston Freeman. They are suitable for framing and signify the selection of the players to berths on the first team.

The all-star team:

FIRST TEAM
Player, School	Yr.
Ed Mooney, Wallkill Jr.
Steve Aurigemma, Marlboro Sr.
Frank Benevento, Marlboro Sr.

St. Mary's Loses CYO Cage Contest

St. Mary's of Kingston failed to score a point in the third period and dropped a 35-27 game to St. Dominic's of Nyack in a first round jayvee game of the Nyack CYO tourney.

The locals had a 19-8 lead at halftime but couldn't find the range in the third period while the winners scored 19 points.

Tom Griffin of Kingston led both clubs with 14 points.

Quits School

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP)—Sophomore Mike Rooney, suspended from the St. Bonaventure basketball team for three weeks this season because of disciplinary reasons, has voluntarily withdrawn from the school, a university spokesman says.

Burns Defeats Bahl, 125-96

Jim Burns defeated Alex Bahl, 125-96, as both completed their 1963 city pocket billiard championship schedule with 3 wins and 5 losses.

Proprietor-player Bob East takes on Jim Davide tonight at 7 o'clock. A win for East will put him in a tie for third place with Dave Holly, each with 5-3 records.

Checking Toll Calls Between Butts and Bryant

ATLANTA (AP) — Telephone company officials are hunting for records of a long-distance telephone call reportedly made by Wallace Butts to Alabama Coach Paul Bryant.

The Saturday Evening Post says Butts, former athletic director at the University of Georgia, telephoned Bryant information concerning the Georgia-Alabama football game last fall.

Both Butts and Bryant denied they rigged the game, which Alabama won 35-0. The magazine says an Atlanta insurance salesman, George Burnett, overheard the telephone conversation.

John J. Ryan, Georgia division commercial manager for Southern Bell Telephone Co., said it is possible for a call to be cut into a long-distance call as Burnett claims happened to him.

But even if records of the telephone call are found, Ryan said, the company could release them only under subpoena.

The Post article says a telephone company official, not identified, confirmed that the call was made.

Ryan said Tuesday: "We are having difficulty locating the person who supposedly confirmed the call."

The FBI announced in Washington that it will not investigate the incident since preliminary inquiries show that no federal law was involved.

The Full Turn For Alex Groza

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Alex Groza, who came off the shelf of dishonor in basketball, will be honored tonight along with the Bellarmine College team that he directed to a winning season.

Groza, 36, was named coach of the year in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference by a vote of league coaches Tuesday.

Groza, former All-America at the University of Kentucky, became Bellarmine coach in 1958-60. The team compiled a 20-7 record.

this season and played in an NCAA college division regional tournament.

For Groza, the road back began 11 years ago, after he and two ex-Kentucky teammates were given suspended sentences by a New York judge for conspiring to shave points. All were banned from basketball for three years.

Groza got his second chance at Bellarmine.

"At first, I felt like crawling on a shelf and hiding," he said. "Finally, I decided I couldn't hide any more. People knew me. They had to begin talking me for what I am and not what I had been."

"I've done 10 years of penance. People are really forgiving."

Federation Discusses Deer Problems at March Meeting

Legislation relating to deer problems and other matters occupied the attention of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County at their March meeting in the Saugerties fire house.

The sportsmen noted passage of a state bill which drops the practice of hunters wearing back patches for a three-year period in the northern part of New York State.

It was announced that the Federation's deer committee is actively distributing petitions to determine public sentiment toward the deer season and party permits.

Accept RVC
The Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club was accepted into the Federation. An application for membership from the Ulster Heights Rod and Gun Club will be voted on at the April meeting to be held at the Marlborough Club house.

Members were advised that resolutions for legislation must be in before June 15.

The schedule for circuit trap shoots were announced as follows: April 7, Walker Valley; April 21, Glasco; May 5, New Paltz.

Two Storms Batter State

Winter Giving Up Grudgingly

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Sister storms tossed snow, hail, sleet, freezing rain and rain at New York State Tuesday night and today, in a prelude to spring that made travel slushy and slippery. But Thursday, the first day of spring, will be generally fair, the weather bureau said. Up to three inches of snow plastered the eastern half of the state overnight. The heaviest fall was at Plattsburgh, in the north. Poughkeepsie, in the lower Hudson Valley, measured 2 inches, and Albany and Glens Falls had 1 to 2.

Driver Fined $5

Hilde Osinga, 26, of Rt. 2, Box 520, New Paltz, who was arrested March 12 by Deputy Sheriff Jack Seaholm on charges of speeding and driving to the left of a double white line in a no-passing zone, was fined $10 on the speeding charge and $5 on the other charge. Osinga was arraigned Monday before Justice of the Peace John B. Tenaglia of town of New Paltz and entered a plea of guilty to both charges.
